AF Planning 600 B-52 Bombers By 1959

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force testimony that it plans a fleet of 600 B-52 intercontinental jet bombers by 1959 was released Wednesday by a Senate subcommittee.

The new air power goal, increased by 100 planes, was disclosed with the publication of heavily censored closed - door testimony by Lt. Gen. C. S. Irvine, deputy chief of staff in charge of Air Force production.

He appeared before the Senate Air Power Investigating subcommittee which last month heard testimony that, as of then, the Air Force had taken delivery of 47 B-52's.

Irvine told the subcommittee that the old goal of 500 B-52's was discarded recently when future production targets were advanced from 17 to 20 bombers a month.

Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, chief of the Strategic Air Command, has told the group that in recent months five or six B-52's have been produced each month. But he said defects in small component parts had delayed acceptance of most of these.

598 Airplanes

Ervine said the production goal for B-52's was formerly 12 a month or 400 by 1959. Subsequent step-ups in production goals "would get us up to 598 airplanes," he testified.

He appeared before the subcommittee May 10.

Calling himself an Air Force "old timer," Irvine said his "personal feeling" is that the United States still leads Russian air power "on a broad front."

"The thing that worries us oldtimers," he continued, "is the rate at which they (the Soviets) have been closing the gap, and the obvious inference, unless very positive action is taken on a very broad front in this country, they are going to be ahead of us in all areas."

He said his estimate of the situation was based on study of intelligence reports, production data and "what I know about what we are doing."

After speaking of B-52 production, Irvine also defended the present program for building the big jet tankers which refuel jet bombers in the air.

400 Tankers

Eventually, the general said, there will be about 400 KC-135 jet tankers for the 600 B-52 bombers.

"At the present time, the Air Force believes that the peak production rates established for the KC-135 and B-52 are the optimum within the present program," he said.

Irvine agreed with previous Air Force witnesses that any nuclear war probably would be decided with aircraft and weapons then available.

Their thinking is that enemy attacks could knock out all production centers or cripple them so badly they would be of little use.

"As I see it, the first three days is the most important period," Irvine testified, "and you will have the major military decisions in the first 15 days."

Irvine said that is why he asked Boeing Aircraft to set up a second factory — at Wichita, Kan. —for production of the B-52 in addition to the first one at Seattle.

He disclosed the first two B-52's cost the Air Force 50 million dollars each. But he said the cost now including all equipment, is less than 8½ million dollars each.

Adenauer Rules No Talk Without Big 3

Chancellor And Sec. Dulles Call On Reds To Show Sincerity

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer declared Wednesday West Germany would negotiate with Russia for German reunification only if the United States, Britain and France joined in the talks.

The visiting West German leader made the statement at a reception given him by press, radio and television reporters.

A little earlier, he and Secretary of State Dulles joined in a call upon Russia to show the world its sincerity by respecting "its international obligations" and "to refrain from endeavoring to impose its system upon other peoples."

Adenauer told those at the reception that in all matters he and Dulles "found ourselves always in agreement with one another."

The 80-year-old Adenauer cautioned that the West must not be deceived by Russia's "propaganda and smiles" in the post-Stalin era.

"For myself," he said, "I firmly believe that nothing has changed. It makes no difference with a dictatorship whether it is one man, three men or ten men. Every dictatorship negates justice, law and liberty."

Adenauer was questioned on a varieth of subjects, including whether he knew if Russia had developed a medium-range ballistic missile.

Adenauer, smiling blandly, noted that he recently had been in Moscow but he commented:

"The Russians didn't tell me anything about that, they don't give away any of their secrets."

But he said firmly that he nevertheless doesn't always believe the Russians when they say they have developed such modern weapons.

Adenauer was asked whether his government might agree to enter direct negotiations with Russia to seek German reunification.

Equal Effect

He replied that German reunification is a question which "equally affects the Soviet Union, the United States, France and the United Kingdom" as well as Germany.

"We are not prepared to negotiate on this question alone, but only together with the other four powers," Adenauer said.

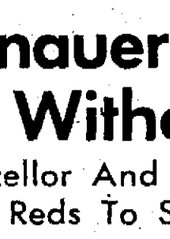

He was asked whether he thought keeping Allied troops in Germany is necessary to European security. He replied that it is "absolutely necessary because the Soviets would walk in, especially if American and British troops were withdrawn."

Diane Knotek Of Lincoln Is Miss Nebraska

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP)—Diane Knotek of Lincoln, a slim brunette, was chosen as Miss Nebraska of 1956. The first runnerup was Gail Drahota of Columbus and the second runnerup was Judith Hall of Omaha.

There were nine contestants.

Miss Knotek was crowned by Sharon Ritchie of Grand Island who is Miss America of 1956.

Miss Knotek

She is 21 years old, 5 feet, 6½ inches tall and weighs 125 pounds. Her measurements are bust 34, waist 24 and hips 35.

Diane, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Reese of 1805 Perkins, rose to the Miss Nebraska title from a beginning as the only Lincolnite among 15 girls who were finalists in the Miss Lincoln contest.

Her measurements and her singing, in which she has had some special training, earned her the right to represent Lincoln at the Sidney finals. In the Lincoln contest she sang "Il Bachio" by Arditi.

She was a junior at the University of Nebraska in arts and sciences, last year. Her on-campus activities included her post as treasurer of Builders, and membership in Mortar Board, the Student Union Board, in Pi Beta Phi and Phi Sigma Iota, professional music sorority.

She has sung as a soloist with the University Men's Glee Club and in her spare time has done modeling work.

Listed as her future schooling hopes was attendance at Julliard School of Music in New York.

Diane's singing background goes back to her Lincoln High School days when she was received enthusiastically in the role of Fifi in the senior choir's production of "Mlle. Modiste." She graduated from Lincoln High in 1953.

Woman Hits Pole On First Driving Lesson; One Hurt

A woman who had never driven before took the wheel of a car for the first time Wednesday evening and drove one-half block before hitting a light pole at 9th and B. A woman passenger was injured in the collision.

Irene Tomek, 45, of 1811 P told police officers that the car went out of control as she was driving south on 9th street, traveled over the curb and struck the pole just south of B.

Barbara Mace, 25, of 1645 Washington, was thrown into the windshield of the car and suffered a lacerated forehead. She was treated at St. Elizabeth's Hospital and released.

The car, which was owned by Miss Mace, was badly damaged. Miss Mace told officers that she was attempting to teach the woman how to drive when she apparently "just froze."

Beef Broth Pleases Ike

. . . A Break In Intravenous Feeding

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, after resting and dozing most of the afternoon, drank some broth Wednesday the first food he has taken by mouth since his intestinal operation last Saturday.

He was "very happy" to get the clear beef broth, even though it was less than half a cupful.

Eisenhower also was relieved at the removal all afternoon of the uncomfortable nose-to-stomach decompression tube inserted after the operation for drainage purposes.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said however, the tube may have to be restored if necessary to prevent nausea and drain the stomach and intestinal tract.

A medical bulletin issued from Walter Reed Hospital pictured the President's spirits as "high throughout the day" and said his condition "continues to be satisfactory."

He had been reported earlier as a bit thinner but "quite chipper" after spending half an hour at work in his hospital bed.

Out Of Bed

He got out of bed twice for about 30 minutes and walked about his room.

The President had gone more than 80 hours with nothing but intravenous nourishment since the ileitis operation was performed before dawn last Saturday. Hagerty said he was "very happy" to take what the bulletin described as "a small amount of beef broth."

Eisenhower is still being fed intravenously, but the decision to allow him some liquid food by mouth indicated the doctors believe his digestive processes are returning to normal.

He was a member of the American and Nebraska Medical Associations and the Lancaster Medical Society and was a fellow of the American College of Surgeons and the Midwest and American Proctological Societies. He was also a member of the Last Man's Club.

Born in Marquette, Neb., Dr. Hickman graduated from Waverly High School and from the University of Nebraska. He received his medical education at Rush College in Chicago, from which he graduated in 1910.

His first practice was in mining camps in Wyoming and at Mandan, N. D. From 1915 until he came to Lincoln in 1918, he practiced at Beaver Crossing.

During World War I, Dr. Hickman served as a captain in the Medical Corps.

Most Of Nation Still Swelters

Mississippi Coast Buffeted By Highest Tides Since '47

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The tug May Dee sank in rough water off the Gulf Coast Wednesday as the first tropical storm of the season moved inland. Seven men were still missing Wednesday night.

Eight men were picked up from the churning waves by the tug Cormorant which remained out hunting for the other missing.

State Heat Continuing

Nebraska's blistering temperatures were expected to remain in the 95-100 degree bracket Thursday in spite of predicted partly cloudy skies and scattered thundershowers along the northern border.

The mercury crossed the century mark at several places in the state Wednesday. All of the Nebraska highs were over 95.

Valentine recorded the state's high of 103. Imperial had 102, Scottsbluff 101, and Sidney had an even 100. Lincoln had the lowest maximum reading of 95.

The Weather Bureau forecast widely scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers for Thursday, most of them near the northern border of the state, but said there would be no important temperature change.

Valentine had a trace of precipitation late Wednesday night while other state points in the north and west reported partly cloudy skies.

But most of the nation sweltered for the fifth straight day in hot, muggy weather.

The 60-foot May Dee was owned by Stevens & Co. Inc., of New Orleans.

Clay Calhoun, general manager of the construction firm, said the May Dee went down while trying to rescue men from a barge, which started dragging anchor. The seven men aboard the barge leaped onto the May Dee and it was swamped. The seven and the May Dee's eight-man crew were thrown into the water.

The mishap occured in Grand Island Channel, an arm of the Gulf of Mexico, about 10 miles east of Louisiana and 10 miles south of Bay St. Louis, Miss.

It came as the Mississippi Gulf Coast experienced its highest tides since a devastating hurricane in 1947.

A heavy truck jackniffed on a bridge across Lake Pontchartrain, near New Orleans. Police said they presumed two occupants had been thrown into the rough water and were drowned.

Moves Northward

The storm moved northward through the interior of south Mississippi Wednesday night, spreading heavy rain in advance of its center.

It damaged piers and small boats on the coast between New Orleans and Florida.

Coast Guard and Navy helicopters rescued five men from a Coast Guard station in the Southwest Pass at the mouth of the Mississippi.

A Navy helicopter was sent to rescue six men who were aboard a floating fish factory which broke from its moorings in the Mississippi Sound.

Five persons were injured in the New Orleans area as the result of slippery streets and ceiling plaster weakened by the rain.

Water crept over the floors of some stores in Biloxi. Winds and waves tore many small boats loose and beached them. Several piers were damaged. One large barge was washed ashore at Gulfport.

Heat records for the date included 106 at Huron, S. D.; 100 at Baltimore; 95.4 at Chicago; 95 at Philadelphia and Harrisburg, Pa., 93 at Pittsburgh and 95.5 at Detroit.

State Power Situation 'All Right,' DeBoer Says

. . . But Highline Failure Disappointing

By RICHARD FELLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska's power situation was called "all right" Wednesday by Dewey DeBoer, executive director of the Nebraska Public Power System, after he returned from Washington and an unsuccessful attempt to have the Nebraska Senators introduce an amendment to the interior appropriation bill calling for $5.5 million for the Fort Randall to Grand Island heavy power line.

DeBoer explained that the additional power that would be available from the proposed line would put Nebraska in "better shape," but he said that if the Lexington plant of the Central Nebraska Power District is built by 1958, and he says there is no reason to feel it will not be, there will be no immediate problem.

DeBoer had said in Washington earlier that he expects Rural Electrification Administration approval "before too long" on loans for both transmission lines within the state and the plant at Lexington.

He said he expects REA approval "within 30 days" for a loan of $5,800,000 to the Loup River Public Power District for transmission lines. He added that he believes the REA will approve loans for the Lexington plant "sometime later this summer."

Good For 3 Years

With the completion of the Lexington plant, power will be adequate for the next three years, he said, but if the load continues to grow; as it has, he said the state will need more power.

Advance planning in Nebraska's public power system is done three years in advance. This means that plans will be made this fall for 1959 and 1960.

DeBoer said it is now too early to predict what will happen and that three years advance planning is adequate since it takes three years to build a power plant. For any federal aid, funds would have to be appropriated in the current Congressional session, he added.

The extra block of power Nebraska wants, DeBoer said, would insure operation of the summer irrigation systems, which have, together with the increased use of air-conditioners, changed the peak power load from one week before Christmas to summer.

Would Pay Extra

If the Fort Randall line went in Nebraska would expect to get a part of the summer extra, now sold at lower prices in South Dakota, in the amount of 30,000 kilowatts.

DeBoer said Nebraska Public Power System would be willing to pay the regular rate, not the so-called dump rate which is some two mills lower, for the power, thus bringing in to the federal government by 1960 an extra $300,000.

Another question raised by the power discussion was that of the "preference clause," which guarantees under an act of 1944 that power from public dams be made available to all public concerns in the market area before it is sold to private firms.

The entire power system in Nebraska is thus able to buy on a preference basis, while in South Dakota, DeBoer estimates some 50 per cent of the power is in private hands.

"The people in North and South Dakota are afraid they'll be robbed," DeBoer said. "Either they misunderstand, or else they deliberately misunderstand" what the preference clause means.

There is a chance, according to Sens. Curtis and Hruska, that the appropriation can be added to the supplementary budget, passed at the end of the session.

"Prospects don't look good," DeBoer said. "I hope we get it, but there is no assurance."

Anderson Says Crops Bound To Be Hurt

. . . By Heat, Drought

The combination of heat and lack of moisture bode ill for much of Nebraska's wheat crop, according to State Federal Crop Statistician A. E. Anderson.

Anderson, who described himself as "always a little pessimestic," said he is "more pessimistic than usual" this year.

Anderson explained that he thought the present heat wave is damaging crops in the western two-thirds of the state, with the exception of part of the Panhandle area and specific counties, such as Chase, Perkins and Keith in the southwestern part of Nebraska. The damage is spotted, he said.

To avoid shrinkage, Anderson said, the wheat needs moisture or at the minimum cool weather during the last few weeks of growth. Last year though there was a lack of moisture in the earlier part of the wheat growing season, the last few weeks had sufficient water to insure success for the crop.

Last year, Anderson said, the wheat "got by" because of late rains. But the current heat, he said, which began Saturday, could stop this year's crop.

"With any crop you don't know whether it'll turn out," Anderson said. "It might turn out better than you think and it might turn out worse. You just don't know, and nobody does."

BLAIR, Neb. (AP) — Eight-year-old Michael Clausen, son of Master Sgt. Alfred Clausen of Ft. Sheridan, Ill., drowned in the Blair municipal pool Wednesday when he accidentally stepped into deep water.

The accident happened on the 25th anniversary of the pool and was the first drowning while life guards were on duty. The boy, who could not swim, had been directed where to wade but made a misstep and slipped into deep water.

There followed four and a half hours of artificial respiration in an attempt to revive the boy.

--7 Men Missing As Tug Swamped--

Tropical Storm Hits Gulf Area And Moves Inland

Mississippi Coast Buffeted By Highest Tides Since '47

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The tug May Dee sank in rough water off the Gulf Coast Wednesday as the first tropical storm of the season moved inland. Seven men were still missing Wednesday night.

Eight men were picked up from the churning waves by the tug Cormorant which remained out hunting for the other missing.

But most of the nation sweltered for the fifth straight day in hot, muggy weather.

The 60-foot May Dee was owned by Stevens & Co. Inc., of New Orleans.

Clay Calhoun, general manager of the construction firm, said the May Dee went down while trying to rescue men from a barge, which started dragging anchor The seven men aboard the barge leaped onto the May Dee and it was swamped. The seven and the May Dee's eight-man crew were thrown into the water.

The mishap occured in Grand Island Channel, an arm of the Gulf of Mexico, about 10 miles east of Louisiana and 10 miles south of Bay St. Louis, Miss.

It came as the Mississippi Gulf Coast experienced its highest tides since a devastating hurricane in 1947.

A heavy truck jacknifed on a bridge across Lake Pontchartrain, near New Orleans. Police said they presumed two occupants had been thrown into the rough water and were drowned.

Moves Northward

The storm moved northward through the interior of south Mississippi Wednesday night, spreading heavy rain in advance of its center.

It damaged piers and small boats on the coast between New Orleans and Florida.

Coast Guard and Navy helicopters rescued five men from a Coast Guard station in the Southwest Pass at the mouth of the Mississippi.

A Navy helicopter was sent to rescue six men who were aboard a floating fish factory which broke from its moorings in the Mississippi Sound.

Five persons were injured in the New Orleans area as the result of slippery streets and ceiling plaster weakened by the rain.

Water crept over the floors of some stores in Biloxi. Winds and waves tore many small boats loose and beached them. Several piers were damaged. One large barge was washed ashore at Gulfport.

Heat records for the date included 106 at Huron, S. D.; 100 at Baltimore; 95.4 at Chicago; 95 at Philadelphia and Harrisburg, Pa., 93 at Pittsburgh and 95.5 at Detroit.

State Heat Continuing

Nebraska's blistering temperatures were expected to remain in the 95-100 degree bracket Thursday in spite of predicted partly cloudy skies and scattered thundershowers along the northern border.

The mercury crossed the century mark at several places in the state Wednesday. All of the Nebraska highs were over 95.

Valentine recorded the state's high of 103. Imperial had 102, Scottsbluff 101, and Sidney had an even 100. Lincoln had the lowest maximum reading of 95.

The Weather Bureau forecast widely scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers for Thursday, most of them near the northern border of the state, but said there would be no important temperature change.

Valentine had a trace of precipitation late Wednesday night while other state points in the north and west reported partly cloudy skies.

Adenauer Rules No Talk Without Big 3

Chancellor And Sec. Dulles Call On Reds To Show Sincerity

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer declared Wednesday West Germany would negotiate with Russia for German reunification only if the United States, Britain and France joined in the talks.

The visiting West German leader made the statement at a reception given him by press, radio and television reporters.

A little earlier, he and Secretary of State Dulles joined in a call upon Russia to show the world its sincerity by respecting "its international obligations" and "to refrain from endeavoring to impose its system upon other peoples."

Adenauer told those at the reception that in all matters he and Dulles "found ourselves always in agreement with one another."

The 80-year-old Adenauer cautioned that the West must not be deceived by Russia's "propaganda and smiles" in the post-Stalin era.

"For myself," he said, "I firmly believe that nothing has changed. It makes no difference with a dictatorship whether it is one man, three men or ten men. Every dictatorship negates justice, law and liberty."

Adenauer was questioned on a varieth of subjects, including whether he knew if Russia had developed a medium-range ballistic missile.

Adenauer, smiling blandly, noted that he recently had been in Moscow but he commented:

"The Russians didn't tell me anything about that, they don't give away any of their secrets."

But he said firmly that he nevertheless doesn't always believe the Russians when they say they have developed such modern weapons.

Equal Effect

He replied that German reunification is a question which "equally affects the Soviet Union, the United States, France and the United Kingdom" as well as Germany.

"We are not prepared to negotiate on this question alone, but only together with the other four powers," Adenauer said.

He was asked whether he thought keeping Allied troops in Germany is necessary to European security. He replied that it is "absolutely necessary because the Soviets would walk in, especially if American and British troops were withdrawn."

Diane Knotek Of Lincoln Is Miss Nebraska

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP)—Diane Knotek of Lincoln, a slim brunette, was chosen as Miss Nebraska of 1956. The first runnerup was Gail Drahota of Columbus and the second runnerup was Judith Hall of Omaha.

There were nine contestants.

Miss Knotek

Miss Knotek was crowned by Sharon Ritchie of Grand Island who is Miss America of 1956.

She is 21 years old, 5 feet, 6½ inches tall and weighs 125 pounds. Her measurements are bust 34, waist 24 and hips 35.

Diane, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Reese of 1805 Perkins, rose to the Miss Nebraska title from a beginning as the only Lincolnite among 15 girls who were finalists in the Miss Lincoln contest.

Her measurements and her singing, in which she has had some special training, earned her the right to represent Lincoln at the Sidney finals. In the Lincoln contest she sang "Il Bachio" by Arditi.

She was a junior at the University of Nebraska in arts and sciences, last year. Her on-campus activities included her post as treasurer of Builders, and membership in Mortar Board, the Student Union Board, in Pi Beta Phi and Phi Sigma Iota, professional music sorority.

She has sung as a soloist with the University Men's Glee Club and in her spare time has done modeling work.

Listed as her future schooling hopes was attendance at Julliard School of Music in New York.

Diane's singing background goes back to her Lincoln High School days when she was received enthusiastically in the role of Fifi in the senior choir's production of "Mlle. Modiste." She graduated from Lincoln High in 1953.

Woman Hits Pole On First Driving Lesson; One Hurt

A woman who had never driven before took the wheel of a car for the first time Wednesday evening and drove one-half block before hitting a light pole at 8th and B. A woman passenger was injured in the collision.

Irene Tomek, 45, of 1811 P told police officers that the car went out of control as she was driving south on 8th street, traveled over the curb and struck the pole just south of B.

Barbara Mace, 25, of 1645 Washington, was thrown into the windshield of the car and suffered a lacerated forehead. She was treated at St. Elizabeth's Hospital and released.

The car, which was owned by Miss Mace, was badly damaged. Miss Mace told officers that she was attempting to teach the woman how to drive when she apparently "just froze."

State Power Situation 'All Right,' DeBoer Says

. . . But Highline Failure Disappointing

By RICHARD FELLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska's power situation was called "all right" Wednesday by Dewey DeBoer, executive director of the Nebraska Public Power System, after he returned from Washington and an unsuccessful attempt to have the Nebraska Senators introduce an amendment to the interior appropriation bill calling for $5.5 million for the Fort Randall to Grand Island heavy power line.

DeBoer explained that the additional power that would be available from the proposed line would put Nebraska in "better shape," but he said that if the Lexington plant of the Central Nebraska Power District is built by 1958, and he says there is no reason to feel it will not be, there will be no immediate problem.

DeBoer had said in Washington earlier that he expects Rural Electrification Administration approval "before too long" on loans for both transmission lines within the state and the plant at Lexington.

He said he expects REA approval "within 30 days" for a loan of $5,800,000 to the Loup River Public Power District for transmission lines. He added that he believes the REA will approve loans for the Lexington plant "sometime later this summer."

Good For 3 Years

With the completion of the Lexington plant, power will be adequate for the next three years, he said, but if the load continues to grow; as it has, he said the state will need more power.

Advance planning in Nebraska's public power system is done three years in advance. This means that plans will be made this fall for 1959 and 1960.

DeBoer said it is now too early to predict what will happen and that three years advance planning is adequate since it takes three years to build a power plant. For any federal aid, funds would have to be appropriated in the current Congressional session, he added.

The extra block of power Nebraska wants, DeBoer said, would insure operation of the summer irrigation systems, which have, together with the increased use of air-conditioners, changed the peak power load from one week before Christmas to summer.

Would Pay Extra

If the Fort Randall line went in Nebraska would expect to get a part of the summer extra, now sold at lower prices in South Dakota, in the amount of 30,000 kilowatts.

DeBoer said Nebraska Public Power System would be willing to pay the regular rate, not the so-called dump rate which is some two mills lower, for the power, thus bringing in to the federal government by 1960 an extra $300,000.

Another question raised by the power discussion was that of the "preference clause," which guarantees under an act of 1944 that power from public dams be made available to all public concerns in the market area before it is sold to private firms.

The entire power system in Nebraska is thus able to buy on a preference basis, while in South Dakota, DeBoer estimates some 50 per cent of the power is in private hands.

"The people in North and South Dakota are afraid they'll be robbed," DeBoer said. "Either they misunderstand, or else they deliberately misunderstand" what the preference clause means.

There is a chance, according to Sens. Curtis and Hruska, that the appropriation can be added to the supplementary budget, passed at the end of the session.

"Prospects don't look good," DeBoer said. "I hope we get it, but there is no assurance."

Beef Broth Pleases Ike

. . . A Break In Intravenous Feeding

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, after resting and dozing most of the afternoon, drank some broth Wednesday the first food he has taken by mouth since his intestinal operation last Saturday.

He was "very happy" to get the clear beef broth, even though it was less than half a cupful.

Eisenhower also was relieved at the removal all afternoon of the uncomfortable nose-to-stomach decompression tube inserted after the operation for drainage purposes.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said however, the tube may have to be restored if necessary to prevent nausea and drain the stomach and intestinal tract.

A medical bulletin issued from Walter Reed Hospital pictured the President's spirits as "high throughout the day" and said his condition "continues to be satisfactory."

He had been reported earlier as a bit thinner but "quite chipper" after spending half an hour at work in his hospital bed.

Out Of Bed

He got out of bed twice for about 30 minutes and walked about his room.

The President had gone more than 80 hours with nothing but intravenous nourishment since the ileitis operation was performed before dawn last Saturday. Hagerty said he was "very happy" to take what the bulletin described as "a small amount of beef broth."

Eisenhower is still being fed intravenously, but the decision to allow him some liquid food by mouth indicated the doctors believe his digestive processes are returning to normal.

Anderson Says Crops Bound To Be Hurt

. . . By Heat, Drought

The combination of heat and lack of moisture bode ill for much of Nebraska's wheat crop, according to State Federal Crop Statistician A. E. Anderson.

Anderson, who described himself as "always a little pessimestic," said he is "more pessimistic than usual" this year.

Anderson explained that he thought the present heat wave is damaging crops in the western two-thirds of the state, with the exception of part of the Panhandle area and specific counties, such as Chase, Perkins and Keith in the southwestern part of Nebraska. The damage is spotted, he said.

To avoid shrinkage, Anderson said, the wheat needs moisture or at the minimum cool weather during the last few weeks of growth. Last year though there was a lack of moisture in the earlier part of the wheat growing season, the last few weeks had sufficient water to insure success for the crop.

Last year, Anderson said, the wheat "got by" because of late rains. But the current heat, he said, which began Saturday, could stop this year's crop.

"With any crop you don't know whether it'll turn out," Anderson said. "It might turn out better than you think and it might turn out worse. You just don't know, and nobody does."

Knowland Insists 'Strong Case' Made For Aid Hike

Johnson Is Not Yet Convinced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican Senate leader, said Wednesday the administration "has made and is making a strong case" for a larger foreign aid authorization than the House voted.

Knowland talked with reporters after Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader, said the administration hasn't yet made a convincing case for a larger sum.

The Republican leader declined to say whether he thought the administration case was strong enough to warrant restoring 600 million dollars of the reduction voted by the House under White House requests.

"Somewhere Between"

He said the case was, however, strong enough to justify Senate approval of a sum "somewhere between" the House figure of $3,800,000,000 and the administration request of $4,900,000,000.

Knowland frequently has disagreed with some aspects of administration foreign policy and his comment Wednesday was his first in support of an increase over the House figure.

He said the Foreign Relations Committee, which began working on the foreign aid bill in morning and afternoon sessions Wednesday, may start voting Thursday on the size of the authorization.

The committee, of which Knowland is a member, held a 2½-hour afternoon session.

Knowland said he hadn't joined in an appeal by 10 Republican senators for a boost in the House-voted sum because he didn't want to commit himself on something of that nature before the Foreign Relations Committee had a chance to evaluate the administration's supporting data for an increase.

He also said it was a partisan statement and that passage of the foreign aid bill will require bipartisan support.

Eight-Year Hiccupper 'Cured'

Jack O'Leary, who hiccupped once a second for eight years, looks at a statue of Pope Pius X and holds a relic of the Pontiff to which he attributes his "miraculous" cure. O'Leary said the hiccupping stopped about a week after he was given the relic, a tiny piece of bone, by a Catholic Air Force chaplain who obtained it from a cardinal in Rome. (AP Wirephoto).

8 YEARS OF HICCUPS IS AT AN END

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Jack O'Leary said Wednesday that after eight racking years his once-a-second, night-and-day hiccups have stopped.

The 30-year-old former assistant market manager called it "a miracle — the doctors claim it is"—due to prayers and faith.

The prayers, he said, included his own, his family's and those of many of the 64,000 persons around the country who wrote him during his long affliction. Jack, a lifelong Roman Catholic, said blessings included one from Pope Pius XII, brought to him by the local archbishop, and a religious relic—a tiny piece of bone from the remains of Pope Pius X brought by an Air Force chaplain.

"Three hundred doctors tried and they couldn't do anything," Jack said of his apparent recovery.

The hiccups, which shriveled him from 138 pounds to 72, tapered off one evening two weeks ago while he was watching television. All that night he had not a single spasm, his mother recalled.

"He Stopped"

"Next morning he hiccuped again but not as fast. And finally, during the day, he stopped," said Mrs. Margaret O'Leary. The hiccups returned for a half hour Tuesday "and may, every now and then, when he gets nervous."

Wednesday was the eighth anniversary of the start of Jack's ordeal. He began hiccuping after his appendix ruptured June 13, 1948. Asked Wednesday how he was progressing, his mother said she had been delaying a report of his seeming recovery to see if it would last.

Up and around since the first three months of his illness, Jack once more is polishing cars for the neighbors—$10 for a wax job.

Twining To Take Top AF Brass

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top technicians of the Air Force will be among the nine officers accompanying Gen. Nathan F. Twining to the Russian air show in Moscow on June 24.

Twining, the Air Force chief of staff, announced the list Wednesday. In selecting his deputy chiefs of staff for operations, development and materiel to make this trip, he underlined his intention of making it a working visit that will test Soviet willingness to show the Americans something more than the staged demonstrations and exhibits that will be seen by visitors from many lands at the show.

The announcement said that definite times for the departure and return of the Air Force group will be determined later and "will depend upon Soviet schedules of events for the party while in the Soviet Union."

The announced membership of the mission excludes the chiefs of the two major fighting commands of the Air Force, the Strategic and Tactical Air Commands.

SAC Represented

It does include the deputy chief of staff for operations of the Air Force, Lt. Gen. Frank F. Everest. The Strategic Air Command will be represented by a deputy director of operations, Brig. Gen. William H. Blanchard.

Twining stressed the technical expectations of his journey to Russia by selecting for the trip Lt. Gen. Donald L. Putt, deputy chief of staff for development at headquarters; Lt. Gen. Thomas S. Power, commander of the Air Research and Development Command, and Lt. Gen. Clarence S. Irvine, deputy chief of staff for materiel at headquarters.

Another top technician going along is Maj. Gen. Albert Boyd, deputy commander of the Research and Development Command.

The Air Force announcement also dissipated proposals heard at the Pentagon to the effect that the air chief should fly to Moscow in one of the newest planes available in this country, possibly a big jet bomber.

Twining said his group would fly in a standard, unarmed military version of a DC-6 airliner.

Northern Natural Given Authority For Gas Pipelines

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Power Commission Wednesday gave Northern Natural Gas Co., Omaha, temporary authority to build $6,309,000 worth of natural gas pipeline facilities in four states.

Northern was authorized to build about 15 miles of loop line in Nebraska and additional compressor capacity in Nebraska, Texas, Kansas and Iowa. This would increase the sales capacity of its pipeline system to meet increasing needs of present customers.

The company also was authorized to construct 26.4 miles of pipeline and to modify compressor units at its Redfield, Iowa, storage project to permit testing operations.

Red Cross Offers August His Old Job

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Pentagon announced Wednesday night that the American Red Cross has offered to rehire a 29-year-old war veteran who lost his job at Fort Lawton, Wash., after the Army listed him as a security risk.

The veteran is Irving I. August of Seattle whose case was cited to President Eisenhower by former Sen. Harry P. Cain (R-Wash), at a White House conference last Thursday.

Cain, now a member of the subversive Activities Control Board, used the August case as an example of the government's loyalty and security risk programs.

Back Pay

The Defense Department announcment said that the Red Cross has offered to re-employ August at the military base and pay him any wages he has lost since he resigned under pressure in March.

August, who served in both World War II and Korean conflict, resigned as a Red Cross assistant field director when the Army listed him as a security risk when he sought permission to go overseas with the organization.

The Army declined to give any reason for its findings against August and refused him a hearing.

Dinner Club's Taxes Ordered Recoverable

Federal Judge John W. Delehant ruled Wednesday that the Lincoln Dinner Club is entitled to recover $1,016.95 with interest from the United States as federal taxes unlawfully collected on the club's membership dues.

The U.S. had contended the taxes were lawfully collected on "amounts paid for admissions to the place," but the court held the "fees and dues collected by the plaintiff (Lincoln Dinner Club) are not taxable as payments for admissions" and that the "taxes were wrongfully collected and paid."

The dinner club, with about 265 members, has an initial fee of $10 and annual dues of $10 payable in advance, the court's memorandum opinion notes. The club holds at least six dinner meetings a year at which selected speakers are brought in.

The opinion said the dues were used for speakers' fees and other administrative costs, noting there was no direct connection with the dues and attendance at the club's dinners.

Cost of the dinners, the court noted, were paid directly by members to the hotel.

The ultimate decision in the case, the court said, turned on the true character of "dues" or "admissions."

The club had filed the suit after paying under protest the $1,016.95 collected by the Internal Revenue office between April 29, 1952, and Jan. 15, 1954.

He was also active in other veterans' organizations.

Knowland Insists 'Strong Case' Made For Aid Hike

Johnson Is Not Yet Convinced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican Senate leader, said Wednesday the administration "has made and is making a strong case" for a larger foreign aid authorization than the House voted.

Knowland talked with reporters after Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader, said the administration hasn't yet made a convincing case for a larger sum.

The Republican leader declined to say whether he thought the administration case was strong enough to warrant restoring 600 million dollars of the reduction voted by the House under White House requests.

"Somewhere Between"

He said the case was however, strong enough to justify Senate approval of a sum "somewhere between" the House figure of $3,500,000,000 and the administration request of $4,900,000,000.

Knowland frequently has disagreed with some aspects of administration foreign policy and his comment Wednesday was his first in support of an increase over the House figure.

He said the Foreign Relations Committee, which began working on the foreign aid bill in morning and afternoon sessions Wednesday, may start voting Thursday on the size of the authorization.

The committee, of which Knowland is a member, held a 2½-hour afternoon session.

Knowland said he hadn't joined in an appeal by 10 Republican senators for a boost in the House-voted sum because he didn't want to commit himself on something of that nature before the Foreign Relations Committee had a chance to evaluate the administration's supporting data for an increase.

He also said it was a partisan statement and that passage of the foreign aid bill will require bipartisan support.

Eight-Year Hiccupper 'Cured'

Jack O'Leary, who hiccupped once a second for eight years, looks at a statue of Pope Pius X and holds a relic of the Pontiff to which he attributes his "miraculous" cure. O'Leary said the hiccupping stopped about a week after he was given the relic, a tiny piece of bone, by a Catholic Air Force chaplain who obtained it from a cardinal in Rome. (AP Wirephoto).

8 YEARS OF HICCUPS IS AT AN END

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Jack O'Leary said Wednesday that after eight racking years his once-a-second, night-and-day hiccups have stopped.

The 30-year-old former assistant market manager called it "a miracle — the doctors claim it is"—due to prayers and faith.

The prayers, he said, included his own, his family's and those of many of the 64,000 persons around the country who wrote him during his long affliction. Jack, a lifelong Roman Catholic, said blessings included one from Pope Pius XII, brought to him by the local archbishop, and a religious relic—a tiny piece of bone from the remains of Pope Pius X brought by an Air Force chaplain.

"Three hundred doctors tried and they couldn't do anything," Jack said of his apparent recovery.

The hiccups, which shriveled him from 138 pounds to 72, tapered off one evening two weeks ago while he was watching television. All that night he had not a single spasm, his mother recalled.

"He Stopped"

"Next morning he hiccuped again but not as fast. And finally, during the day, he stopped," said Mrs. Margaret O'Leary. The hiccups returned for a half hour Tuesday "and may, every now and then, when he gets nervous."

Wednesday was the eighth anniversary of the start of Jack's ordeal. He began hiccuping after his appendix ruptured June 13, 1948. Asked Wednesday how he was progressing, his mother said she had been delaying a report of his seeming recovery to see if it would last.

Up and around since the first three months of his illness, Jack once more is polishing cars for the neighbors—$10 for a wax job.

The flower girl was Jean Clark, of Ravenna, while the crown bearer was Phyllis Stickney, of Columbus. The train-bearer was Kay Holm, of Overton.

Twining To Take Top AF Brass

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top technicians of the Air Force will be among the nine officers accompanying Gen. Nathan F. Twining to the Russian air show in Moscow on June 24.

Twining, the Air Force chief of staff, announced the list Wednesday. In selecting his deputy chiefs of staff for operations, development and materiel to make this trip, he underlined his intention of making it a working visit that will test Soviet willingness to show the Americans something more than the staged demonstrations and exhibits that will be seen by visitors from many lands at the show.

The announcement said that definite times for the departure and return of the Air Force group will be determined later and "will depend upon Soviet schedules of events for the party while in the Soviet Union."

The announced membership of the mission excludes the chiefs of the two major fighting commands of the Air Force, the Strategic and Tactical Air Commands.

SAC Represented

It does include the deputy chief of staff for operations of the Air Force, Lt. Gen. Frank F. Everest. The Strategic Air Command will be represented by a deputy director of operations, Brig. Gen. William H. Blanchard.

Twining stressed the technical expectations of his journey to Russia by selecting for the trip Lt. Gen. Donald L. Putt, deputy chief of staff for development at headquarters; Lt. Gen. Thomas S. Power, commander of the Air Research and Development Command, and Lt. Gen. Clarence S. Irvine, deputy chief of staff for materiel at headquarters.

Another top technician going along is Maj. Gen. Albert Boyd, deputy commander of the Research and Development Command.

The Air Force announcement also dissipated proposals heard at the Pentagon to the effect that the air chief should fly to Moscow in one of the newest planes available in this country, possibly a big jet bomber.

Twining said his group would fly in a standard, unarmed military version of a DC-6 airliner.

Northern Natural Given Authority For Gas Pipelines

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Power Commission Wednesday gave Northern Natural Gas Co., Omaha, temporary authority to build $6,309,000 worth of natural gas pipeline facilities in four states.

Northern was authorized to build about 15 miles of loop line in Nebraska and additional compressor capacity in Nebraska, Texas, Kansas and Iowa. This would increase the sales capacity of its pipeline system to meet increasing needs of present customers.

The company also was authorized to construct 28.4 miles of pipeline and to modify compressor units at its Redfield, Iowa, storage project to permit testing operations.

Red Cross Offers August His Old Job

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Pentagon announced Wednesday night that the American Red Cross has offered to rehire a 29-year-old war veteran who lost his job at Fort Lawton, Wash., after the Army listed him as a security risk.

The veteran is Irving I. August of Seattle whose case was cited to President Eisenhower by former Sen. Harry P. Cain (R-Wash), at a White House conference last Thursday.

Cain, now a member of the subversive Activities Control Board, used the August case as an example of the government's loyalty and security risk programs.

Back Pay

The Defense Department announcement said that the Red Cross has offered to re-employ August at the military base and pay him any wages he has lost since he resigned under pressure in March.

August, who served in both World War II and Korean conflict, resigned as a Red Cross assistant field director when the Army listed him as a security risk when he sought permission to go overseas with the organization.

The Army declined to give any reason for its findings against August and refused him a hearing.

Dinner Club's Taxes Ordered Recoverable

Federal Judge John W. Delehant ruled Wednesday that the Lincoln Dinner Club is entitled to recover $1,016.95 with interest from the United States as federal taxes unlawfully collected on the club's membership dues.

The U.S. had contended the taxes were lawfully collected on "amounts paid for admissions to the place," but the court held the "fees and dues collected by the plaintiff (Lincoln Dinner Club) are not taxable as payments for admissions" and that the "taxes were wrongfully collected and paid."

The dinner club, with about 265 members, has an initial fee of $10 and annual dues of $10 payable in advance, the court's memorandum opinion notes. The club holds at least six dinner meetings a year at which selected speakers are brought in.

The opinion said the dues were used for speakers' fees and other administrative costs, noting there was no direct connection with the dues and attendance at the club's dinners.

Cost of the dinners, the court noted, were paid directly by members to the hotel.

The ultimate decision in the case, the court said, turned on the true character of "dues" or "admissions."

The club had filed the suit after paying under protest the $1,016.95 collected by the Internal Revenue office between April 29, 1952, and Jan. 15, 1954.

Col. Gardner Rites Will Be Monday

Services for Col. Walter J. Gardner, 58, former Lincoln jeweler and distinguished serviceman, who died Sunday, will be held at 1 p.m. Monday at Arlington National Cemetery in Washington, D. C.

Col. Gardner died in California where he and his wife had resided since his retirement from active duty in Sept. 1955.

He was a veteran of both world wars and had been awarded the Croix de Guerre by France and a Legion of Merit.

Col. Gardner was a charter member of the Lincoln American Legion Post and had held several state offices in that group.

He was also active in other veterans' organizations.

Surviving are his wife, the former Florence Graves; a daughter, Mrs. Sidney Ann Lampert of the Panama Canal Zone; a son, Walter Jr., in the service; a sister, Mrs. Louise Doty of Pasadena, Calif.; a brother, Fred of Lincoln; a sister-in-law, Mrs. James Lawrence of Lincoln, and two grandchildren.

Truck Assessments Raised, But Autos Lowered

State Board Takes Action

By ROY CAMPBELL
Star Staff Writer

Tax assessments on trucks was expected to increase and on new cars to decrease for 1957 models as a result of Board of Equalization action Wednesday.

The cut in the new car valuations, however, appeared in line for protests by new car dealers whose stocks represent about three per cent of the taxable cars in the state.

The taxable valuation on trucks, which was raised by the Board an average of $250 and up a unit over last year, will be about 48 per cent of the factory price for the first year and 31 per cent for the second.

Tax Commissioner Fred Herrington said the assessment schedules on the trucks were drawn from factory list prices, which don't include modifications of truck tractors. He said a change in the assessment laws relating to truck tractors and trailers was needed to better equalize the assessment schedules.

Down To 8%

Under the new formula, the taxable valuation for trucks will go to 20 per cent for the third year, 14 for the fourth, 10 for the fifth, and 8 for the sixth.

The assessed value on trailers, based on the standard 35-foot models, was expected to be slightly down from last year. No consideration will be taken of the type of construction, whether steel or aluminum, or whether or not extras like refrigeration are part of the equipment.

Herrington said he thought the valuations on truck trailers last year was too high and that trailers were assessed as being more valuable than the trucks themselves.

New car valuations will decrease slightly, although not to the extent asked by new car dealers.

Formula Given

The formula to be used for 1957 models will be one of adding 50 per cent of the factory price to the 1956 models. This figure would be the factory list price and would be cut by 30 per cent for immediate depreciation.

The 70 per cent figure would be cut by 50 per cent, according to state law, as the assessed valuation.

New car dealers asked in filing a protest that only 25 per cent factory list valuation be added to the 1956 models for determining the market value of the 1957 cars.

The board action would result in an average reduction of about seven per cent for passenger cars for next year.

No Extras

Herrington said the average valuation of the new cars would not take into consideration many of the extras on the new models; such as power brakes and steering and air conditioning.

Board Chairman Gov. Victor Anderson said he felt better satisfied the assessment schedules were being done on facts and an honest basis.

Board action Wednesday set assessment schedules on house trailers, motor scooters, and motorcycles at about the same rate as last year. Herrington said the tax on the mobile homes would be the same in face of increasing price raises on the trailers.

On the commercial truck trailers, assessment schedules will vary according to the length

Contractor Fined For Not Filing Withheld Taxes

Herbert H. Henke, 43, cement contractor of 216 No. 26th was fined $300 in Federal District Court and placed on probation for one year for failure to make returns on income tax and insurance contributions withheld from employes' wages.

Henke had pleaded nolo contendere to a six-count complaint covering a period from July 1, 1953, to Dec. 31, 1954. The misdemeanor charge alleged he withheld $1,241.04 and failed to file returns.

Judge John W. Delehant fined Henke $50 on each count and suspended imposition of imprisonment.

Maximum penalty on the charge is a $10,000 fine or one year imprisonment, or both, according to the U. S. District Attorney's office.

Prison Inmates Get Extra Terms

Two Nebraska Penitentiary inmates have been sentenced in connection with Lancaster District Court charges.

Ronald Eddy, 23, from Denver, Colo., was given an additional year after pleading guilty to the charge of escape from the prison last Oct. 27.

Eddy was apprehended in Texas about seven months after he walked off a prison dairy detail. He was serving a two-year burglary term given Jan. 5, 1955, from Douglas County.

The other inmate, Judson F. Rowland, 36, from Pawnee City was sentenced to a two-year term for issuing a $105 no-account check July. 23, 1954, in Lincoln. He had pleaded guilty.

The term was pronounced concurrent to Rowland's present three-year term given in September, 1954, for bad checks in Pawnee County. He has served two previous prison terms for bad checks.

Sentences were pronounced by Judge Harry Ankeny.

Other States Concerned About Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nebraska was told Wednesday that a deep concern on the part of neighboring states has blocked Congreeional approval of the proposed Ft. Randall, S. D Grand Island, Neb., 230-kv power transmission line

The picture was made clear by senators from South Dakota, Wyoming and Minnesota during a Senate floor exchange on the big public works money bill, which includes funds for the Missouri Basin reclamation project.

When the bill was brought up, Sen. Curtis (R-Neb) asked Sen. Ellender (D-La), floor manager for the measure, why the money were cut ont.

Ellender told him it "seems there is a fear" on the part of neighboring states that, because Nebraska is a public power state by law, it may get a disproportionate share of the power developed on the Missouri Basin project. Under federal power law preference customers, including public bodies or organizations, are entitled to first call on federally produced energy.

Ellender advised Curtis to discuss the matter with reclamation Bureau officials and see if some policy cannot be worked out so there will be no unfairness in the distribution of Missouri Basin power. If the bureau does not have that authority, then legislation to protect all the states in the basin may be necessary, he said.

Curtis asserted there was no justification for any belief that Nebraska would be imdordinately favored in the distribution of Missouri Basin project power. Ellender's expressions, however, were supported by Sens. Case (R-Sd), Barrett (R-Wyo) and Thye (R-Minn).

"As long as things are as they are, then we are compelled to have the reclamation Bureau make a policy binding before this project can be authorized," Thye said.

Barrett contended, however, that "the bureau is helpless. We must have legislation."

Case said that South Dakota had provided the sites to "park" Missouri River water behind flood control dams, and would like the opportuntiy to use the power generated at these dams.

"That's why we are not enthusiastic about building a line to siphon power into Nebraska," he said. Case explained that it might be 10 years before South Dakota REA's are able to make their maximum use of the power and, in the meantime, they don't want it preempted by other public power bodies.

Curtis and Sen. Hruska (R-Neb) said earlier they had decided against making a Senate floor fight to restore the Ft. Randall-Grand Island line money to the bill.

FCC Asks Cops Fix Police Radio; Agent Got Ticket

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP)—The City Council, noting that the city's radio equipment had been in use for years, asked why the federal government now is requiring changes that call for new equipment.

Police Chief Harry C. Diamond said one of his patrolmen recently arrested a Federal Communications Commission agent on a traffic violation.

"After that we were inspected immediately and we were cited on seven violations of various sorts," the chief said.

Other States Concerned About Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nebraska was told Wednesday that a deep concern on the part of neighboring states has blocked Congreeional approval of the proposed Ft. Randall, S. D. Grand Island, Neb., 230-kv power transmission line.

The picture was made clear by senators from South Dakota, Wyoming and Minnesota during a Senate floor exchange on the big public works money bill, which includes funds for the Missouri Basin reclamation project.

When the bill was brought up, Sen. Curtis (R-Neb) asked Sen. Ellender (D-La), floor manager for the measure, why the money were cut ont.

Ellender told him it "seems there is a fear" on the part of neighboring states that, because Nebraska is a public power state by law, it may get a disproportioate share of the power developed on the Missouri Basin project. Under federal power law preference customers, including public bodies or organizations, are entitled to first call on federally produced energy.

Ellender advised Curtis to discuss the matter with reclamation Bureau officials and see if some policy cannot be worked out so there will be no unfairness in the distribution of Missouri Basin power. If the bureau does not have that authority, then legislation to protect all the states in the basin may be necessary, he said.

Curtis asserted there was no justification for any belief that Nebraska would be indordinately favored in the distribution of Missouri Basin project power. Ellender's expressions, however, were supported by Sens. Case (R-Sd), Barrett (R-Wyo) and Thye (R-Minn).

"As long as things are as they are, then we are compelled to have the reclamation Bureau make a policy binding before this project can be authorized," Thye said.

Barrett contended, however, that "the bureau is helpless. We must have legislation."

Case said that South Dakota had provided the sites to "park" Missouri River water behind flood control dams, and would like the opportuntiy to use the power generated at these dams.

"That's why we are not enthusiastic about building a line to siphon power into Nebraska," he said. Case explained that it might be 10 years before South Dakota REA's are able to make their maximum use of the power and, in the meantime, they don't want it preempted by other public power bodies.

Curtis and Sen. Hruska (R-Neb) said earlier they had decided against making a Senate floor fight to restore the Ft. Randall-Grand Island line money to the bill.

FCC Asks Cops Fix Police Radio; Agent Got Ticket

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP)—The City Council, noting that the city's radio equipment had been in use for years, asked why the federal government now is requiring changes that call for new equipment.

Police Chief Harry C. Diamond said one of his patrolmen recently arrested a Federal Communications Commission agent on a traffic violation.

"After that we were inspected immediately and we were cited on seven violations of various sorts," the chief said.

Child Revived At Omaha Pool

OMAHA (AP)—Steve Bauermeister, 7, was revived by artificial respiration after he was found at the bottom of the Miller Park swimming pool Wednesday afternoon.

Lifeguard David Scott, 19, found the boy in five feet of water. Young Bauermeister was taken to a hospital by the Fire Department rescue squad.

Scott and another attendant gave artificial respiration until the rescue squad arrived.

Contractor Fined For Not Filing Withheld Taxes

Herbert H. Henke, 43, cement contractor of 216 No. 26th was fined $300 in Federal District Court and placed on probation for one year for failure to make returns on income tax and insurance contributions withheld from employes' wages.

Henke had pleaded nolo contendere to a six-count complaint covering a period from July 1, 1953, to Dec. 31, 1954. The misdemeanor charge alleged he withheld $1,241.04 and failed to file returns.

Judge John W. Delehant fined Henke $50 on each count and suspended imposition of imprisonment.

Maximum penalty on the charge is a $10,000 fine or one year imprisonment, or both, according to the U. S. District Attorney's office.

Prison Inmates Get Extra Terms

Two Nebraska Penitentiary inmates have been sentenced in connection with Lancaster District Court charges.

Ronald Eddy, 23, from Denver, Colo., was given an additional year after pleading guilty to the charge of escape from the prison last Oct. 27.

Eddy was apprehended in Texas about seven months after he walked off a prison dairy detail. He was serving a two-year burglary term given Jan. 5, 1955, from Douglas County.

The other inmate, Judson F. Rowland, 36, from Pawnee City was sentenced to a two-year term for issuing a $105 no-account check July 23, 1954, in Lincoln. He had pleaded guilty.

The term was pronounced concurrent to Rowland's present three-year term given in September, 1954, for bad checks in Pawnee County. He has served two previous prison terms for bad checks.

Sentences were pronounced by Judge Harry Ankeny.

So Far So Good

The Department of Agriculture's most recent crop report was not encouraging to farm producers generally. It forecast the lowest yields in 11 years.

In most crops Nebraska seems to be an exception. Its wheat forecast is down to 65,540,000 bushels, a noticeably smaller figure than the 72 million bushel estimate of a month ago and to the actual bumper yield of 78 million bushels last year. But Nebraska corn is off to a good start, standing well and some of it already undergoing first cultivation. Timely rains and optimum growing weather have combined to brighten the Nebraska picture.

Despite the poorer prospects for wheat, Nebraska does not qualify for the federal crop reports "poorest crop year in eleven."

Even the decline in wheat from bumper yields will not bar substantial production. The bright prospect for other crops promises at this stage to bring diversified production.

Of course, there is no guarantee that nature will be as kind during the coming weeks as it has recently. Nebraska will not count its chickens before they are hatched. The memory of the 1955 drought is still fresh. A good corn forecast as late as July 1 fell approximately 100 million bushels before harvest time, during a period when drought scrambled the whole production picture.

But there is this to say of a bright crop report. It means that all is well enough so far. It is so much better news than facts of early season crop losses. We will take it the way it is—so far, so good.

Can't Cipher Either

The nation is concerned over lack of educational facilities and to its rather poor showing when it comes to producing engineers and scientists for the ever growing demand.

There is no cause to slow down the school construction program. But there is cause to look more critically at what is going, or not going on, inside present class rooms.

Only a year ago the University of Illinois terminated its courses in remedial English. The university as many other schools of higher learning had been working over its freshmen crops who arrived at school too poorly prepared in the grade and high schools in that all important subject. Illinois got tired of it and threw the burden of adequate language instruction back to the high schools where it belongs.

Now comes a report from the Carnegie Institute in the field of grade and high school mathematics. It is not an encouraging report. Institute research asserted that of 60 high school mathematics teachers ten are competent and 50 are confused. It said that teachers have a distaste for the subject and in most cases are not adequately prepared to teach it. Add that the disinclination of the average student to grapple with an unexciting but complicated subject and the result is far from satisfactory.

Such deficiencies in basic subjects as the language and mathematics will not be corrected by expending millions on new school structures. It is dangerous in these critical times to confuse form with substance.

Whether professional educators are doing their full share in inculcating essential knowledge in the oncoming generation is a matter that could be debated. But it is certain that educators alone cannot provide the remedy. There must be emphasis at home and in the mind of the pupil to complete the circumstances that produce truly informed students. And certainly producing uneducated graduates is a damaging flight from reality and must be rationalized ere the nation attains the educational goals now so necessary.

Nothing Brash, Please

Any thoughtful Nebraskan should not be surprised that back in Washington, Nebraska's two senators Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska decided Wednesday against making a Senate floor fight for funds to build a heavy power line from Fort Randall to Grand Island.

It is about the only conclusion that Messrs. Curtis and Hruska could reach unless they were prepared to stage a real stand-up and knock-down battle in defense of a Nebraska claim that the old standing policy of preference for public bodies in the distribution of electricity gave Nebraska priority. There'll be no amendment offered by Curtis or Hruska when the Interior appropriations bill comes before the Senate. It is just a little bit too much to expect the Nebraskans to have a stomach for that. On the basis of their record, the only time either one of them has been a crusader for public power was when something affecting their own state was up, and then their crusade was about as polite as pink tea.

Now, badly as Nebraska needs this Fort Randall-Grand Island line it is not going to get funds to construct it as long as two milk and water senators follow the course which they have. "We may try later!" Senator Curtis explains. Well that will be fine and dandy but we trust Senator Curtis will not over-exert himself, or break any ribs endeavoring to get a loan for the construction of a sorely needed transmission line. If Curtis and Hruska were to do a little bit of fighting it would put them in a position: (1) being out of step with the Eisenhower administration and its beautiful ideas about a partnership in river basin development; (2) it would force the two of them to stand up and be counted in the battle over the preferential clause. If we experience a power shortage in 1957 Nebraskans should not forget the sad sad story of the Fort Randall-Grand Island transmission line. What a pillar of strength Curtis and Hruska turned out to be!

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

Back from Europe where he has been serving as a member of the foreign staff of the Associated Press was Reinhold "Gus" Ensz. Prior to joining the Associated Press, Mr. Ensz—whose father and mother owned the farm on the other side of the old Ft. Scott highway which led past the adjoining homestead of the grandfather of the editor of this paper—obtained his preliminary training in newspapering as a member of the staff of The Lincoln Star.

★

Mr. Ensz, a most capable, competent observer and reporter, spoke of the continuing swift changes taking place in the American scene. He drove along the old highway that led past the farm he had known as a boy. It was a highway lined with orchards and with fine shade trees then—towering cottonwoods, other varieties—but a tree-lined avenue of beauty. Those trees were gone. Some of the farms he remembered no longer existed as individual units but had been added to other farms in the constant trend toward large scale farming operations. But the thing which he noticed most was that seemingly in this country, the fear of war is greater than it is among the peoples in countries at arm's length to Russia itself. The Germans with all of the tensions of a common frontier between East and West are much more composed in the belief that reasonably peaceful relationship will continue between Communism and the western world than we are here in this country. Why? That is a phase of it Mr. Ensz did not go into in any detail.

No Haunting Fear of War

We have our own notions. Distance in itself contributes to apprehension. Nearness may inspire indifference. But we take it that the German today is convinced there is no war right around the corner—and no war likely to develop in the immediate months ahead. Germany has made rapid progress in putting its house in order—that is, West Germany.

★

Of much that Mr. Ensz told us during a visit to the office for a few hours with his old associates, nothing impressed us more than the fact that he said Germany offered an excellent opportunity for the individual to save money. Contrary to common notions here in the United States, living costs in Berlin, for example, are not exorbitant. It is possible to live and to live comfortably on $100 a month, and anything beyond that could be velvet, or money in the bank if the individual so desired. That sheds some light on the battle that has developed in Congress between a leadership in Congress and the President over foreign aid. There is a powerful group in Congress in favor of slashing foreign aid drastically—others, if the truth were known, who would eliminate it entirely. But before too many months or years, the foreign aid program will face reduction.

Opportunity To Save

★

What Europe and Asia must recognize is that the time is moving nearer when they will have to stand wholly upon their own feet.

Neutralism

President Eisenhower's defense of the right of small young nations to be neutral, coupled with his dissent from the idea that they should tie themselves to bigger nations through arms treaties has been hailed with enthusiasm by isolation-minded who saw in it a way to shuck off foreign obligations. But that was not the spirit of the utterance. The right to be neutral, as it was pronounced, implied a major power standing ready to guarantee that neutrality without calling for conditions which could either be ruinous to the smaller nation or a negation of neutrality. Actually it called for greater responsibilities than military alliances.

Andrews Fights On

T. Coleman Andrews, former commissioner of internal revenue, is continuing his war on the income tax. He thinks it should be abolished, replaced by something more stable.

Coleman noted that the graduated income tax shrinks in hard times because people don't earn as much and it collects a great deal in boom times when not so much is needed. According to that, he reasons it is oppressive in hard times and unjust in good times.

He has apparently forgotten that one of the strong arguments for the graduated tax is its waxing and waning according to general economic conditions. In hard times it tends to tax less, releasing more for private spending while in boom times it takes a heavy slice and does its work against inflation.

As a tax man Mr. Andrews should know the basic and inevitable rule is that money cannot be taxed where it does not exist. The graduated income tax works because it obeys that principle.

Loaded Man

A Des Moines man, weaving slightly, entered the police station, tossed a pair a dice on the chief's desk and asked if something were the matter with them. He explained they had just lost him $89. The chief informed him he was not an expert on loaded dice but he knew quite a bit about loaded people. The man was promptly arrested on an intoxication charge.

GOP Leaders Mean To Keep Ike Running

WASHINGTON — After about 24 hours of hectic indecision immediately after Eisenhower's illness, the Republican high command has decided on a united and vigorous front that he can and must run again.

Hardly was he out from under the anesthetic than the word was passed down to the party faithful. Unofficially there were serious misgivings, but officially this was the party line. The President himself didn't have a word to say about it, nor did his wife and son.

The official line was adopted despite the fact that General Eisenhower himself has been quite frank about his health and his own worry over it. He is about the only man who has been frank.

Here is the record of what Eisenhower has said, both in public and in private:

1. At a stag dinner in the winter of 1954 he told Chairman Len Hall, Attorney General Brownell, and other close advisers that the Republican party should not depend on one man, that they should start to build up new men to take his place. And he named some who should be groomed.

Despite this, both Chairman Hall and Vice President Nixon left the dinner to make emphatic statements that Ike was sure to run.

2. In May, 1955, Eisenhower told Sen. George Bender of Ohio that if he ran again he would be the only President to reach the age of 70 in the White House. And he spoke — all too prophetically — about the erosion on the health of any President. To make sure his views were known publicly he asked Jim Hagerty to see to it that this view was expressed to the press.

3. In September, 1955, as Republican state leaders gathered in Denver, their faces grew long as the President told them, in brief, that they could not pin their future on one man, they must begin developing other candidates. This was just three weeks prior to Eisenhower's tragic heart attack.

4. When he came back from that heart attack, Eisenhower told news men at Key West, Fla., that it would be wrong for him to run again unless he had a good chance of serving out a second term, because "it is a very critical thing to change governments in this country at a time when it's unexpected."

5. At his first White House press conference after the heart attack he warned: "It would be idle to pretend that my health can be wholly restored to the excellent state in which the doctors believed it to be in mid-September . . . my future life must be carefully regulated to avoid excessive fatigue."

That is the unequivocal record of Ike's apparently definite decision at that time not to run again.

☆ ☆ ☆

Chairman Hall, the top mastermind, went to Gettysburg; came out to announce that he was confident Ike would run again. Senator Knowland of California, who called on the President the same day, came out with just the opposite opinion.

What Hall did at Gettysburg was to start a holding operation. He asked the President not to say "no," at least for the time being, on the ground that he needed to keep Congress guessing for the sake of his legislative program. A lame-duck president, Hall argued, has no influence with Congress.

Ike bought Hall's holding-operation strategy. It was the smartest thing Hall has ever done. For the passage of time gave the leaders, the White House staff, everyone around the President time to pressure him, to argue that he was the indispensable man. Simultaneously he got back his old confidence.

Demos Zero In On Power Policy

WASHINGTON — The Senate Democratic leadership is setting the stage for a major attack on the Eisenhower conservation, power and public lands policies. This is the famous "giveaway" issue and Democrats this fall will rely heavily on it in the Northwest and, to a degree, in California.

The vehicle for the debate will be the Morse bill authorizing federal construction of Hell's Canyon dam on the Snake River in Idaho, the last big dam site left in North America. The Eisenhower partnership policy is to permit the Idaho Power Co. to build three small dams yielding less power than one big one.

Hell's Canyon has been a casualty of the backstage maneuvers which brought the Tidelands Oil bill to the Senate floor with Republicans and Democrats as co-sponsors.

As the cloakrooms understood the story, former Senator Guy Cordon of Oregon was willing to let the Tidelands go back to the states provided the Southern States involved would relieve the Northwest and Western Republicans of a politically risky roll call on Hell's Canyon.

Tidelands got to the floor and was approved with West and Midwest Republican aid. Hell's Canyon thereafter proved wholly unattractive to Senator Russell Long of Louisiana, an Interior committee member whose state is a major beneficiary of the Tidelands legislation.

☆ ☆ ☆

Senator Long, in most respects a New Dealer and normally cooperative with his fellow-Democrats, consistently furnished the margin of defeat for any move to take Hell's Canyon out of its convenient pigeonhole.

The committee shifts resulting from Senator Alben Barkley's death and Senator Walter George's impending retirement have sent Senator Long to Foreign Relations. The search has been on ever since for a public power Democrat to replace him on Interior.

Senator Albert Gore was asked to move over from rules. He was told that his long experience at home with TVA would be invaluable. The national advertising he would get, especially in the West where he is not so well known, was dangled before him as further bait.

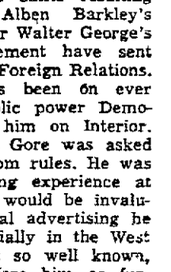

The present word is that Senator Eugene D. Millikin, the Colorado Republican who is up for re-election this year, would abstain from an Interior committee vote this week to bring Hell's Canyon to the floor. If this is so, it will not be necessary for Gore to shift.

Arthritis has confined Senator Millikin to a wheel chair, but he staunchly insists that he will run again. He has a formidable opponent in the offing in former secretary of agriculture Charles Brannan, a close friend of Governor Ed Johnson, who has long been a powerhouse in Colorado politics.

Democrats calculate that the debate will be helpful in Oregon where Senator Wayne Morse is the prime GOP congressional target, in Washington where Senator Magnuson faces GOP Governor Arthur B. Langlie and in Idaho where a chance exists of unseating Republican Senator Herman Welker.

It ALL Comes Out Same In Russia

NEW YORK — The problem of who wrote Anna Karenina, which has been told on successive generations of despots, pops up again in London. It gets better through the years—since I first read it in Winchell's piece.

Khrushchev claimed during his visit to 10 Downing that once in Moscow he asked a student, "Who wrote Anna Karenina?" The frightened student said, "Not me. I didn't do it." Khrushchev claims he sent for the MVD and bawled him out for terrorizing the student. He demanded a report. The MVD man came back the next day with bruised knuckles and a report, "The student has finally admitted writing Anna Karenina," he asserted.

There are 1,500,000,000 dollar bills more or less in circulation in this country. How many of their owners know what the pyramid and the eye above it mean on the back of each buck?

Thanks to Ray Bolger, who clears up the matter as a fine guest on one of Father James Keller's Christopher TV shows, here's the dope:

It's the reverse side of the familiar spread-eagled Great Seal of the U.S. The question of the needed seal arose on the afternoon of the signing of the declaration of independence. Jefferson, Franklin and John Adams were appointed to prepare the seal's design and its inscription. There was much haggling, especially by Franklin. He held the Eagle in low repute. It had the manners and appetite of a vulture. He held out for the turkey, and lost.

The final design, the work of William Barton and Charles Thomson, was approved by Congress after six years. The pyramid represents the material strength of the country. The eye is the "eye of God, placing the spiritual welfare of the country above its material prosperity." The words "annuit coeptis" means "he (God) has favored our undertakings." The words on the pyramid base, "novus ordo seclorum" mean "a new order of ages." The Roman numerals spell out to 1776.

Now, fellows, let's all get some.

MAN'S BEST FRIEND

A Friendly Hand-Shaking Texan

By ALLEN EDEE
Star Staff Writer

Trigger, an eight-year-old collie and native Texan, insists on shaking hands with his sidekick and owner, John F. O'Donnell of 501 So. 28th, every time John comes home. The dog greets his owner as if he had just ridden in from the Texas Panhandle rather than from work at the Lincoln Fire Department.

If O'Donnell forgets the shake, Trigger will growl until the slight is noticed.

But as old as Trigger is, just like a small kid he hates to take baths. When the owners corral him and run him into some soapy water, Trigger believes he is being turned into a pansy. He will hike out after taking a bath and as soon as he can find some good black dirt or mud, Trigger will roll in it until he figures he is no longer an outcast.

Another "kid trick" of Trigger's is to make a fuss over his bedtime cookie. Without the cookie, the dog just will not go to bed.

☆ ☆ ☆

Trigger is what one might call a "rump hunter." When a shotgun goes off, all O'Donnell can see of his dog is his hind-end as he streaks in retreat for the car. Trigger is definitely gun-shy. Maybe he just likes wildlife, though, for he never has tried to chase the squirrels or rabbits that abound in the O'Donnell yard.

(Star Staff Photo)

JOHN F. O'DONNELL AND TRIGGER
. . . a friend of the birds and beasts, too . . .

Trigger has really made a name for himself in this glad-hand business. And he works at it. His favorite trick is to sit by a nearby bus stop and wait for the people he knows to get off the bus. After alighting, Trigger's friends find him a glue-like companion all the way to their homes.

He likes to walk with the children to school. But he has evidently heard a too-vivid description of the principal from the children, for he never goes into the school yard.

The Short Ballot

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I agree with the Republican proposal concerning the short ballot. What do we chaps who have to make a living till we're tired and put in our spare time looking at TV for recreation know about the qualifications of the guy who's running for secretary of state or even auditor of public accounts? The executive department of the national government is much better run because we simply elect a President and let him appoint the members of his cabinet.

Some are afraid of a political machine that we can't all own. The trouble is we don't put in the time and effort necessary to manage so many offices. We're ignorant of the candidates. We either don't have the time or we're too indifferent or lazy to inform ourselves. We insist on the power and then don't use it. As it is now, we have a jungle of offices and officeholders about whom we know little, and perhaps care less. When something goes wrong, buck-passing is easy and automatic. Nebraska would be much better served if we simply elected a governor and let him appoint the heads of the executive departments. Let him build up a machine if he likes. If it didn't serve our needs, we'd know whom to hold responsible and we could have a house-cleaning in short order.

Then, with the short ballot for the state executive department, we should make a partisan legislature and pay them enough salary so they could dispense with the "training table."

It's very encouraging to see so much statesmanship on the part of some Republicans here in Nebraska. Our state government is now a mess. They are offering some proposals to make democracy work and implement the public will.

City-County Building

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I am proud of Lincoln and eager to see it continue its progressive growth. That is why I favor the proposed city-county building.

Many people don't realize that eventually a city-county building —built now—will mean a tax savings to us. With more space and repairs needed today in the present overcrowded, unsafe and antiquated city hall and courthouse, it becomes increasingly costly to maintain these quarters. Like an old car, there comes a time when it's wiser to buy a new one than to pour endless amounts into repair for the old one, which although good in its day can never compare to a new model.

That's why I call it a matter of civic pride to urge the bond issue for a city-county building. As citizens of Lincoln, we all want our home town pride to be justified, as it can be by a building equal to the needs of our city.

MRS. CARL H. ROHMAN

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The proposition relating to the Lincoln-Lancaster County Building Authority is really wrapped up in the proverbial legal verbiage. Taken out of context, we read: ". . . and no taxes shall be levied for the payment of either principal or interest of such bonds, but said bonds shall be payable solely and only from the revenues to be derived from the operation of such property."

If the city and county expect to occupy the proposed building, they will either pay rent or get thrown out, as the authority will own the property. The authority also fixes the amount of the rent to be paid. Where will the city and county get the money to pay such rentals? Where else except from the taxpayers by assessment and levy against their property.

Again out of context from the same proposition: ". . . authorizing the issuance of such bonds for the assurance of the payment of such bonds . . ." This clause floors me—I am out cold. Naturally I shall vote against such a proposition and against the issuance of any bonds created by the proposition.

So Far So Good

The Department of Agriculture's most recent crop report was not encouraging to farm producers generally. It forecast the lowest yields in 11 years.

In most crops Nebraska seems to be an exception. Its wheat forecast is down to 65,540,000 bushels, a noticeably smaller figure than the 72 million bushel estimate of a month ago and to the actual bumper yield of 78 million bushels last year. But Nebraska corn is off to a good start, standing well and some of it already undergoing first cultivation. Timely rains and optimum growing weather have combined to brighten the Nebraska picture.

Despite the poorer prospects for wheat, Nebraska does not qualify for the federal crop reports "poorest crop year in eleven."

Even the decline in wheat from bumper yields will not bar substantial production. The bright prospect for other crops promises at this stage to bring diversified production.

Of course, there is no guarantee that nature will be as kind during the coming weeks as it has recently. Nebraska will not count its chickens before they are hatched. The memory of the 1955 drought is still fresh. A good corn forecast as late as July 1 fell approximately 100 million bushels before harvest time, during a period when drought scrambled the whole production picture.

But there is this to say of a bright crop report. It means that all is well enough so far. It is so much better news than facts of early season crop losses. We will take it the way it is—so far, so good.

Can't Cipher Either

The nation is concerned over lack of educational facilities and to its rather poor showing when it comes to producing engineers and scientists for the ever growing demand.

There is no cause to slow down the school construction program. But there is cause to look more critically at what is going, or not going on, inside present class rooms.

Only a year ago the University of Illinois terminated its courses in remedial English. The university as many other schools of higher learning had been working over its freshmen crops who arrived at school too poorly prepared in the grade and high schools in that all important subject. Illinois got tired of it and threw the burden of adequate language instruction back to the high schools where it belongs.

Now comes a report from the Carnegie Institute in the field of grade and high school mathematics. It is not an encouraging report. Institute research asserted that of 60 high school mathematics teachers ten are competent and 50 are confused. It said that teachers have a distaste for the subject and in most cases are not adequately prepared to teach it. Add that the disinclination of the average student to grapple with an unexciting but complicated subject and the result is far from satisfactory.

Such deficiencies in basic subjects as the language and mathematics will not be corrected by expending millions on new school structures. It is dangerous in these critical times to confuse form with substance.

Whether professional educators are doing their full share in inculcating essential knowledge in the oncoming generation is a matter that could be debated. But it is certain that educators alone cannot provide the remedy. There must be emphasis at home and in the mind of the pupil to complete the circumstances that produce truly informed students. And certainly producing uneducated graduates is a damaging flight from reality and must be rationalized ere the nation attains the educational goals now so necessary.

Nothing Brash, Please

Any thoughtful Nebraskan should not be surprised that back in Washington, Nebraska's two senators Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska decided Wednesday against making a Senate floor fight for funds to build a heavy power line from Fort Randall to Grand Island.

It is about the only conclusion that Messrs. Curtis and Hruska could reach unless they were prepared to stage a real stand-up and knock-down battle in defense of a Nebraska claim that the old standing policy of preference for public bodies in the distribution of electricity gave Nebraska priority. There'll be no amendment offered by Curtis or Hruska when the Interior appropriations bill comes before the Senate. It is just a little bit too much to expect the Nebraskans to have a stomach for that. On the basis of their record, the only time either one of them has been a crusader for public power was when something affecting their own state was up, and then their crusade was about as polite as pink tea.

Now, badly as Nebraska needs this Fort Randall-Grand Island line it is not going to get funds to construct it as long as two milk and water senators follow the course which they have. "We may try later!" Senator Curtis explains. Well that will be fine and dandy but we trust Senator Curtis will not over-exert himself, or break any ribs endeavoring to get a loan for the construction of a sorely needed transmission line. If Curtis and Hruska were to do a little bit of fighting it would put them in a position: (1) being out of step with the Eisenhower administration and its beautiful ideas about a partnership in river basin development; (2) it would force the two of them to stand up and be counted in the battle over the preferential clause. If we experience a power shortage in 1957 Nebraskans should not forget the sad sad story of the Fort Randall-Grand Island transmission line. What a pillar of strength Curtis and Hruska turned out to be!

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

Back from Europe where he has been serving as a member of the foreign staff of the Associated Press was Reinhold "Gus" Ensz. Prior to joining the Associated Press, Mr. Ensz—whose father and mother owned the farm on the other side of the old Ft. Scott highway which led past the adjoining homestead of the grandfather of the editor of this paper—obtained his preliminary training in newspapering as a member of the staff of The Lincoln Star.

★

Mr. Ensz, a most capable, competent observer and reporter, spoke of the continuing swift changes taking place in the American scene. He drove along the old highway that led past the farm he had known as a boy. It was a highway lined with orchards and with fine shade trees then—towering cottonwoods, other varieties—but a tree-lined avenue of beauty. Those trees were gone. Some of the farms he remembered no longer existed as individual units but had been added to other farms in the constant trend toward large scale farming operations. But the thing which he noticed most was that seemingly in this country, the fear of war is greater than it is among the peoples in countries at arm's length to Russia itself. The Germans with all of the tensions of a common frontier between East and West are much more composed in the belief that reasonably peaceful relationship will continue between Communism and the western world than we are here in this country. Why? That is a phase of it Mr. Ensz did not go into in any detail.

We have our own notions. Distance in itself contributes to apprehension. Nearness may inspire indifference. But we take it that the German today is convinced there is no war right around the corner—and no war likely to develop in the immediate months ahead. Germany has made rapid progress in putting its house in order—that is, West Germany.

★

Of much that Mr. Ensz told us during a visit to the office for a few hours with his old associates, nothing impressed us more than the fact that he said Germany offered an excellent opportunity for the individual to save money. Contrary to common notions here in the United States, living costs in Berlin, for example, are not exorbitant. It is possible to live and to live comfortably on $100 a month, and anything beyond that could be velvet, or money in the bank if the individual so desired. That sheds some light on the battle that has developed in Congress between a leadership in Congress and the President over foreign aid. There is a powerful group in Congress in favor of slashing foreign aid drastically—others, if the truth were known, who would eliminate it entirely. But before too many months or years, the foreign aid program will face reduction.

Opportunity To Save

★

What Europe and Asia must recognize is that the time is moving nearer when they will have to stand wholly upon their own feet.

Neutralism

President Eisenhower's defense of the right of small young nations to be neutral, coupled with his dissent from the idea that they should tie themselves to bigger nations through arms treaties has been hailed with enthusiasm by isolation-minded who saw in it a way to shuck off foreign obligations. But that was not the spirit of the utterance. The right to be neutral, as it was pronounced, implied a major power standing ready to guarantee that neutrality without calling for conditions which could either be ruinous to the smaller nation or a negation of neutrality. Actually it called for greater responsibilities than military alliances.

Andrews Fights On

T. Coleman Andrews, former commissioner of internal revenue, is continuing his war on the income tax. He thinks it should be abolished, replaced by something more stable.

Coleman noted that the graduated income tax shrinks in hard times because people don't earn as much and it collects a great deal in boom times when not so much is needed. According to that, he reasons it is oppressive in hard times and unjust in good times.

He has apparently forgotten that one of the strong arguments for the graduated tax is its waxing and waning according to general economic conditions. In hard times it tends to tax less, releasing more for private spending while in boom times it takes a heavy slice and does its work against inflation.

As a tax man Mr. Andrews should know the basic and inevitable rule is that money cannot be taxed where it does not exist. The graduated income tax works because it obeys that principle.

Loaded Man

A Des Moines man, weaving slightly, entered the police station, tossed a pair a dice on the chief's desk and asked if something were the matter with them. He explained they had just lost him $89. The chief informed him he was not an expert on loaded dice but he knew quite a bit about loaded people. The man was promptly arrested on an intoxication charge.

GOP Leaders Mean To Keep Ike Running

WASHINGTON — After about 24 hours of hectic indecision immediately after Eisenhower's illness, the Republican high command has decided on a united and vigorous front that he can and must run again.

Hardly was he out from under the anesthetic than the word was passed down to the party faithful. Unofficially there were serious misgivings, but officially this was the party line. The President himself didn't have a word to say about it, nor did his wife and son.

The official line was adopted despite the fact that General Eisenhower himself has been quite frank about his health and his own worry over it. He is about the only man who has been frank.

Here is the record of what Eisenhower has said, both in public and in private:

1. At a stag dinner in the winter of 1954 he told Chairman Len Hall, Attorney General Brownell, and other close advisers that the Republican party should not depend on one man, that they should start to build up new men to take his place. And he named some who should be groomed.

Despite this, both Chairman Hall and Vice President Nixon left the dinner to make emphatic statements that Ike was sure to run.

2. In May, 1955, Eisenhower told Sen. George Bender of Ohio that if he ran again he would be the only President to reach the age of 70 in the White House. And he spoke — all too prophetically — about the erosion on the health of any President. To make sure his views were known publicly he asked Jim Hagerty to see to it that this view was expressed to the press.

3. In September, 1955, as Republican state leaders gathered in Denver, their faces grew long as the President told them, in brief, that they could not pin their future on one man, they must begin developing other candidates. This was just three weeks prior to Eisenhower's tragic heart attack.

4. When he came back from that heart attack, Eisenhower told news men at Key West, Fla., that it would be wrong for him to run again unless he had a good chance of serving out a second term, because "it is a very critical thing to change governments in this country at a time when it's unexpected."

5. At his first White House press conference after the heart attack he warned: "It would be idle to pretend that my health can be wholly restored to the excellent state in which the doctors believed it to be in mid-September . . . my future life must be carefully regulated to avoid excessive fatigue."

That is the unequivocal record of Ike's apparently definite decision at that time not to run again.

☆ ☆ ☆

Chairman Hall, the top mastermind, went to Gettysburg; came out to announce that he was confident Ike would run again. Senator Knowland of California, who called on the President the same day, came out with just the opposite opinion.

What Hall did at Gettysburg was to start a holding operation. He asked the President not to say "no," at least for the time being, on the ground that he needed to keep Congress guessing for the sake of his legislative program. A lame-duck president, Hall argued, has no influence with Congress.

Ike bought Hall's holding-operation strategy. It was the smartest thing Hall has ever done. For the passage of time gave the leaders, the White House staff, everyone around the President time to pressure him, to argue that he was the indispensable man. Simultaneously he got back his old confidence.

Demos Zero In On Power Policy

WASHINGTON — The Senate Democratic leadership is setting the stage for a major attack on the Eisenhower conservation, power and public lands policies. This is the famous "giveaway" issue and Democrats this fall will rely heavily on it in the Northwest and, to a degree, in California.

The vehicle for the debate will be the Morse bill authorizing federal construction of Hell's Canyon dam on the Snake River in Idaho, the last big dam site left in North America. The Eisenhower partnership policy is to permit the Idaho Power Co. to build three small dams yielding less power than one big one.

Hell's Canyon has been a casualty of the backstage maneuvers which brought the Tidelands Oil bill to the Senate floor with Republicans and Democrats as co-sponsors.

As the cloakrooms understood the story, former Senator Guy Cordon of Oregon was willing to let the Tidelands go back to the states provided the Southern States involved would relieve the Northwest and Western Republicans of a politically risky roll call on Hell's Canyon.

Tidelands got to the floor and was approved with West and Midwest Republican aid. Hell's Canyon thereafter proved wholly unattractive to Senator Russell Long of Louisiana, an Interior committee member whose state is a major beneficiary of the Tidelands legislation.

☆ ☆ ☆

Senator Long, in most respects a New Dealer and normally cooperative with his fellow-Democrats, consistently furnished the margin of defeat for any move to take Hell's Canyon out of its convenient pigeonhole.

The committee shifts resulting from Senator Alben Barkley's death and Senator Walter George's impending retirement have sent Senator Long to Foreign Relations. The search has been on ever since for a public power Democrat to replace him on Interior.

Senator Albert Gore was asked to move over from rules. He was told that his long experience at home with TVA would be invaluable. The national advertising he would get, especially in the West where he is not so well known, was dangled before him as further bait.

The present word is that Senator Eugene D. Millikin, the Colorado Republican who is up for re-election this year, would abstain from an Interior committee vote this week to bring Hell's Canyon to the floor. If this is so, it will not be necessary for Gore to shift.

Arthritis has confined Senator Millikin to a wheel chair, but he staunchly insists that he will run again. He has a formidable opponent in the offing in former secretary of agriculture Charles Brannan, a close friend of Governor Ed Johnson, who has long been a powerhouse in Colorado politics.

Democrats calculate that the debate will be helpful in Oregon where Senator Wayne Morse is the prime GOP congressional target, in Washington where Senator Magnuson faces GOP Governor Arthur B. Langlie and in Idaho where a chance exists of unseating Republican Senator Herman Welker.

It ALL Comes Out Same In Russia

NEW YORK — The problem of who wrote Anna Karenina, which has been told on successive generations of despots, pops up again in London. It gets better through the years—since I first read it in Winchell's piece.

Khrushchev claimed during his visit to 10 Downing that once in Moscow he asked a student, "Who wrote Anna Karenina?" The frightened student said, "Not me. I didn't do it." Khrushchev claims he sent for the MVD and bawled him out for terrorizing the student. He demanded a report. The MVD man came back the next day with bruised knuckles and a report. "The student has finally admitted writing Anna Karenina," he asserted.

There are 1,500,000,000 dollar bills more or less in circulation in this country. How many of their owners know what the pyramid and the eye above it mean on the back of each buck?

Thanks to Ray Bolger, who clears up the matter as a fine guest on one of Father James Keller's Christopher TV shows, here's the dope:

It's the reverse side of the familiar spread-eagled Great Seal of the U.S. The question of the needed seal arose on the afternoon of the signing of the declaration of independence. Jefferson, Franklin and John Adams were appointed to prepare the seal's design and its inscription. There was much haggling, especially by Franklin. He held the Eagle in low repute. It had the manners and appetite of a vulture. He held out for the turkey, and lost.

The final design, the work of William Barton and Charles Thomson, was approved by Congress after six years. The pyramid represents the material strength of the country. The eye is the "eye of God, placing the spiritual welfare of the country above its material prosperity." The words "annuit coeptis" means "he (God) has favored our undertakings." The words on the pyramid base, "novus ordo seclorum" mean "a new order of ages." The Roman numerals spell out to 1776.

Now, fellows, let's all get some.

MAN'S BEST FRIEND

A Friendly Hand-Shaking Texan

By ALLEN EDEE
Star Staff Writer

Trigger, an eight-year-old collie and native Texan, insists on shaking hands with his sidekick and owner, John F. O'Donnell of 501 So. 28th, every time John comes home. The dog greets his owner as if he had just ridden in from the Texas Panhandle rather than from work at the Lincoln Fire Department.

If O'Donnell forgets the shake, Trigger will growl until the slight is noticed.

But as old as Trigger is, just like a small kid he hates to take baths. When the owners corral him and run him into some soapy water, Trigger believes he is being turned into a pansy. He will hike out after taking a bath and as soon as he can find some good black dirt or mud, Trigger will roll in it until he figures he is no longer an outcast.

Another "kid trick" of Trigger's is to make a fuss over his bedtime cookie. Without the cookie, the dog just will not go to bed.

☆ ☆ ☆

Trigger is what one might call a "rump hunter." When a shotgun goes off, all O'Donnell can see of his dog is his hind-end as he streaks in retreat for the car. Trigger is definitely gun-shy. Maybe he just likes wildlife, though, for he never has tried to chase the squirrels or rabbits that abound in the O'Donnell yard.

Trigger has really made a name for himself in this glad-hand business. And he works at it. His favorite trick is to sit by a nearby bus stop and wait for the people he knows to get off the bus. After alighting, Trigger's friends find him a glue-like companion all the way to their homes.

He likes to walk with the children to school. But he has evidently heard a too-vivid description of the principal from the children, for he never goes into the school yard.

The Short Ballot

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I agree with the Republican proposal concerning the short ballot. What do we chaps who have to make a living till we're tired and put in our spare time looking at TV for recreation know about the qualifications of the guy who's running for secretary of state or even auditor of public accounts? The executive department of the national government is much better run because we simply elect a President and let him appoint the members of his cabinet.

Some are afraid of a political machine that we can't all own. The trouble is we don't put in the time and effort necessary to manage so many offices. We're ignorant of the candidates. We either don't have the time or we're too indifferent or lazy to inform ourselves. We insist on the power and then don't use it. As it is now, we have a jungle of offices and officeholders about whom we know little, and perhaps care less. When something goes wrong, buck-passing is easy and automatic. Nebraska would be much better served if we simply elected a governor and let him appoint the heads of the executive departments. Let him build up a machine if he likes. If it didn't serve our needs, we'd know whom to hold responsible and we could have a house-cleaning in short order.

Then, with the short ballot for the state executive department, we should make a partisan legislature and pay them enough salary so they could dispense with the "training table."

It's very encouraging to see so much statesmanship on the part of some Republicans here in Nebraska. Our state government is now a mess. They are offering some proposals to make democracy work and implement the public will.

City-County Building

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I am proud of Lincoln and eager to see it continue its progressive growth. That is why I favor the proposed city-county building.

Many people don't realize that eventually a city-county building—built now—will mean a tax savings to us. With more space and repairs needed today in the present overcrowded, unsafe and antiquated city hall and courthouse, it becomes increasingly costly to maintain these quarters. Like an old car, there comes a time when it's wiser to buy a new one than to pour endless amounts into repair for the old one, which although good in its day can never compare to a new model.

That's why I call it a matter of civic pride to urge the bond issue for a city-county building. As citizens of Lincoln, we all want our home town pride to be justified, as it can be by a building equal to the need of our city.

Also In Army 5 Years—

Already A Doctor Of Law, He Gets His M.D. Degree Saturday From NU

OMAHA — Graduation is becoming sort of a habit with George Prichard, who will receive his M.D. degree at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine Commencement, Saturday. It will be his fourth degree in 14 years.

Prichard is already a doctor of law — holding the J.D. degree from the University of Iowa. He also has a bachelor of arts degree from Iowa and a bachelor of science degree in medicine from Nebraska.

Doctor-lawyer Prichard is one of the few men in the world qualified to enter the practice of legal medicine, and because of the long years required to obtain two doctor's degrees, the field is not apt to become overcrowded.

The son of District Court Judge and Mrs. George Prichard of Sioux City, Iowa, George began his academic career at Iowa City. He finished his liberal arts course and one year of law school when the draft board nearly caught up with him. He enlisted in the infantry at the beginning of World War II.

Rose to Major

His military career lasted five years, one of which was spent in the European theater where he commanded a rifle company. He was discharged as a major, the rank he still holds in the active reserve.

While in the service he decided to become a doctor, but decided to finish law school first. The field of legal medicine appealed to him, and he resolved to prepare for it. He received his J. D. degree from Iowa in 1948, and a year later came to Nebraska to take the freshman courses in biological sciences which he needed for entrance to medical school.

All of Prichard's degrees were earned the hard way. None of them are honorary. He has worked his way through school doing everything from managing a night club to selling pots and pans. He spent one year — the year between law school graduation and entrance into medicine — selling pre-fabricated farm buildings over an eight-state area.

During the past three years he has held three jobs — including acting as a representative for a national drug firm, selling surgical supplies and instructing an army reserve unit.

In his spare time he has turned out a 500-page book on "Medical Malpractice," which he is now preparing for publication, and a handbook which will also soon be ready for the publishers. He has also given many lectures on legal medicine to student and faculty groups at the College of Medicine.

His training, however, is still not complete. He leaves July 1 for a year's internship at Los Angeles — which incidentally is the center for legal medicine in this country. He also plans to take additional training in preparation for a specialty, although he hasn't decided which one. His interest in legal medicine will probably lead him to eventually locate in a large metropolitan area, where he can combine the practice of two professions — law and medicine.

FATHER'S DAY IS JUNE 17th

Already A Doctor Of Law, He Gets His M.D. Degree Saturday From NU

OMAHA — Graduation is becoming sort of a habit with George Prichard, who will receive his M.D. degree at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine Commencement, Saturday. It will be his fourth degree in 14 years.

Prichard is already a doctor of law — holding the J.D. degree from the University of Iowa. He also has a bachelor of arts degree from Iowa and a bachelor of science degree in medicine from Nebraska.

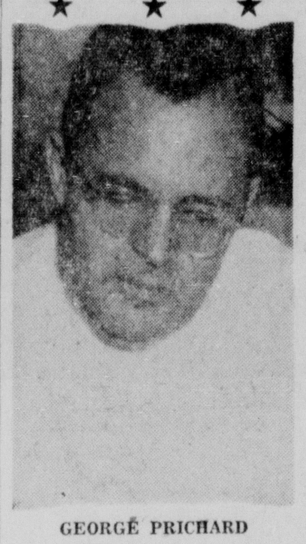

Doctor-lawyer Prichard is one of the few men in the world qualified to enter the practice of legal medicine, and because of the long years required to obtain two doctor's degrees, the field is not apt to become overcrowded.

The son of District Court Judge and Mrs. George Prichard of Sioux City, Iowa, George began his academic career at Iowa City. He finished his liberal arts course and one year of law school when the draft board nearly caught up with him. He enlisted in the infantry at the beginning of World War II.

Rose to Major

His military career lasted five years, one of which was spent in the European theater where he commanded a rifle company. He was discharged as a major, the rank he still holds in the active reserve.

While in the service he decided to become a doctor, but decided to finish law school first. The field of legal medicine appealed to him, and he resolved to prepare for it. He received his J. D. degree from Iowa in 1948, and a year later came to Nebraska to take the freshman courses in biological sciences which he needed for entrance to medical school.

All of Prichard's degrees were earned the hard way. None of them are honorary. He has worked his way through school doing everything from managing a night club to selling pots and pans. He spent one year — the year between law school graduation and entrance into medicine — selling pre-fabricated farm buildings over an eight-state area.

During the past three years he has held three jobs — including acting as a representative for a national drug firm, selling surgical supplies and instructing an army reserve unit.

In his spare time he has turned out a 500-page book on "Medical Malpractice," which he is now preparing for publication, and a handbook which will also soon be ready for the publishers. He has also given many lectures on legal medicine to student and faculty groups at the College of Medicine.

His training, however, is still not complete. He leaves July 1 for a year's internship at Los Angeles — which incidentally is the center for legal medicine in this country. He also plans to take additional training in preparation for a specialty, although he hasn't decided which one. His interest in legal medicine will probably lead him to eventually locate in a large metropolitan area, where he can combine the practice of two professions — law and medicine.

Cain Doubts Need For U.S. Loyalty Program

. . . 'Fascist'-Type Abuses Cited

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harry P Cain told Congress Wednesday he believes there is "serious question whether we need a socalled loyalty program in this country"

Cain made this statement to a Senate Judiciary subcommittee on constitutional rights after saying President Eisenhower showed "deep concern and interest" in his proposals for revamping the federal loyalty-security program

Continuing testimony he began earlier, Cain said that among thousands of government workers listed as security risks over the years, it would be hard to count a dozen who actually were found to be disloyal.

'Inhumane Trap'

The former Republican senator from Washington State declared that the security program has been marked by "Fascist" type abuses which make even application for a federal job "a terrifying and inhumane trap"

He submitted to the subcommittee a number of individual cases which he said pointed up injustices in the program Chairman Hennings (D-Mo) promised a thorough inquiry into each case.

Cain also repeated his criticism of the attorney general's list of subversive organizations To list organizations as bad "without those in authority bothering to define why the organizations are bad is to employ a weapon from the arsenal of the tyrant," he said

Has Serious Doubts

He said he has serious doubts the list is needed "in a free society."

Cain, an Eisenhower-appointee to the Subversive Activities Control Board, long has been an outspoken critic of the loyalty-security program. He has indicated that for this reason he does not expect reappointment to the $15,000-a-year job when his term expires in August

One of the case brought up by Cain was that of William Henry Taylor Cain called for an investigation of a letter used in an effort to pin a Communist spy label on Taylor Cain said the letter "may have been fabricated"

A Civil Service Loyalty Board, reversing an earlier finding, cleared Taylor on Jan 5 and said it found "not a reasonable doubt" as to the loyalty of the International Monetary Fund official

Seaton Asked To Cancel Oil, Gas Leases In Refuges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen Neuberger (D-Ore) Wednesday called upon the new secretary of the interior, Fred A Seaton, to cancel oil and gas leases in wildlife refuges

Neuberger said in a Senate speech the former secretary, Douglas McKay, "allowed nearly six times as many oil leases within our refuges during a two-year period as were permitted by previous interior secretaries during 33 years"

The senator said widespread drilling in refuges "would reverse the original purpose for which game sanctuaries were founded and might exterminate ducks and geese"

Hot Debate On SS Bill Anticipated

. . . In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Social Security bill now awaiting Senate floor action may provoke one of the liveliest debates of the 1956 session because of changes made in it by the Senate Finance Committee.

The debate tentatively is scheduled to start Thursday or Friday, although it already has been postponed several times.

It is one of the major items of legislative business this year, and is considered certain to be passed in some form before final adjournment

Two New Benefits

As passed by the House last year, the bill carried two major new benefits. It would lower the retirement age for all women from 65 to 62, and establish a new program of disability benefits for persons totally disabled at age 50 or higher

In addition, it would raise the tax ½ per cent each on the employer and employe to finance the new provisions.

But the Eisenhower administration opposed both benefits, largely because of the cost, and the Senate Finance Committee altered the bill in line with the administration views.

Disability Out

It knocked out the disability program entirely, and made the 62 retirement age available only to widows.

A fight has been predicted on the Senate floor to restore both House provisions in full.

Both versions of the measure make many other minor changes in the 20-year-old law. However, they do not change the basic requirements in present law for coverage to be eligible for Social Security benefits. These range from a minimum of six months to a maximum of 10 years.

Nebraska Sites Suggested For New Federal Prison

Mead Plant, Red Cloud Are Listed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Curtis and Hruska, Nebraska Republicans, have suggested that a proposed new federal prison be located in Nebraska.

Curtis said that a number of Nebraska communities have expressed interested in becoming sites of any new federal penal institution. Among the communities that are interested, he said, are Mead and Red Cloud.

The two senators have informed the Justice Department of their views.

Curtis suggested that the Mead Ordnance Plant might be converted into a prison.

President Eisenhower's budget included an item for a new prison but it was rejected by the House Appropriations Committee. The proposal is now pending before the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Pony Express Rider Opening Sidney Event

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP) — The annual Fort Sidney Days celebration here, ushered by luxuriant beards, gingham aprons and the popping of pistols, will begin in Sidney Thursday.

Old fashioned costumes are the general rule and a good share of the male residents have grown beards of a sort.

A pony express rider will gallop into town Thursday morning bearing the official greeting of Fort Sidney Days to Gov. Victor Anderson and Fort Sidney Colonel Guy Doran of Sidney.

The three day affair will include various entertainment and on Saturday there will be a parade, dancing in the streets, vaudeville acts and a free barbecue.

Another forerunner of the celebration was a special edition of the Sidney Telegraph, which appeared Wednesday night with a front page done in the pioneer fashion and regaling the readers with reprinted stores of old-time news events.

Job's Daughters Gather At York

YORK, Neb. (AP)—Recreation was the top item on the agenda Wednesday for the annual convention of the Grand Guardian Council of Nebraska, International Order of Job's Daughters.

This organization includes girls who have a Masonic heritage.

An initiation ceremony was held Wednesday night and on Thursday new officers will be installed.

Miller Invasion Blamed On Wind, Climatic Action

Climatic conditions and possible wind variation have caused the invasion of millers in eastern Nebraska, according to Robert Roselle, assistant extension entomologist with the University of Nebraska.

Millers originate from the "Western army cutworm," Roselle said, which is present in alfalfa and other grains.

Millers are so called because of the appearance of dust or powder on them, like that on a miller's clothes.

"Millers are attracted to low intensity lights, but hide from the sunlight," he said "Therefore, they are attracted to light bulbs, but hide in basements or dark places during the day."

Roselle said that usually millers remain farther west in the state and prefer high altitudes. He said that the climatic conditions last fall, combined with the wind movement which blew the worms farther east, probably caused the enormous numbers in eastern Nebraska.

Old fashioned costumes are the general rule and a good share of the male residents have grown beards of a sort.

A pony express rider will gallop into town Thursday morning bearing the official greeting of Fort Sidney Days to Gov. Victor Anderson and Fort Sidney Colonel Guy Doran of Sidney.

The three day affair will include various entertainment and on Saturday there will be a parade, dancing in the streets, vaudeville acts and a free barbecue.

Another forerunner of the celebration was a special edition of the Sidney Telegraph, which appeared Wednesday night with a front page done in the pioneer fashion and regaling the readers with reprinted stores of old-time news events.

Job's Daughters Gather At York

YORK, Neb. (AP)—Recreation was the top item on the agenda Wednesday for the annual convention of the Grand Guardian Council of Nebraska, International Order of Job's Daughters.

This organization includes girls who have a Masonic heritage.

An initiation ceremony was held Wednesday night and on Thursday new officers will be installed.

Steele City Woman's Pitcher Collection Began 77 Years Ago

Mrs. Palmer holds prized pitcher from Holland. (Star Staff Photo)

By BILL HINEL
Beatrice Bureau

STEELE CITY, Neb.—One of Steele City's oldest residents is Mrs. Alice Palmer, 88, who has lived in Steele City 68 years and came to the community in 1875.

Mrs. Palmer lives alone since the death of her husband Wallace in 1938. But only a few doors down the street and a frequent visitor is her son Wallace Jr., whose wife is "just like a daughter to me". Two daughters, Mrs. May Vander Steeg and Mrs. Amy Numbers, live in Nampa, Ida., and Boise, Ida., respectively.

Next to her grandchildren, Mrs. Palmer prizes her collection of nearly 400 pitchers most dearly. Her collection really started when she was 11 years old. Her mother had given a tiny china pitcher to another daughter. Mrs. Palmer, then 11, prized the pitcher and was determined to get it. Two bushels of hulled walnuts and a little bargaining did the trick, and the pitcher is number one of her collection.

The pitchers, some creamers, some for water, and some for other things, were mostly given her by friends. She doesn't want any more. "I've no place to put them", she says.

Right now Mrs. Palmer is looking forward to July 1, when granddaughter Amy Palmer of San Diego, Calif. comes to be married in the Steele City Presbyterian Church.

Nebraska Senators Decide Against Floor Fight For Randall Power Line

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sens. Curtis and Hruska, Nebraska Republicans, decided Wednesday against a Senate floor fight for funds to build a heavy power line from Ft. Randall Dam to Grand Island, Neb.

The Senate Appropriations Committee last Friday rejected a budget request for 5½ million dollars for the 230-KV kilovolt line from the Missouri River Dam in South Dakota into Central Nebraska. Earlier, the House Appropriations Committee had turned down the project.

Curtis said a decision was reached Wednesday not to offer an amendment when the interior appropriations bill is considered in the Senate. He said the decision was made after talking with many senators, including appropriation committee members, as well as Dewey DeBoer, general manager of the Nebraska Public Power System.

"We came to the conclusion we could not be successful in getting the Senate to adopt such an amendment," Curtis said.

Cites Opposition

"The states outside the Missouri River Basin would have no direct interest in it and of the states within the basin three or four would actively oppose it."

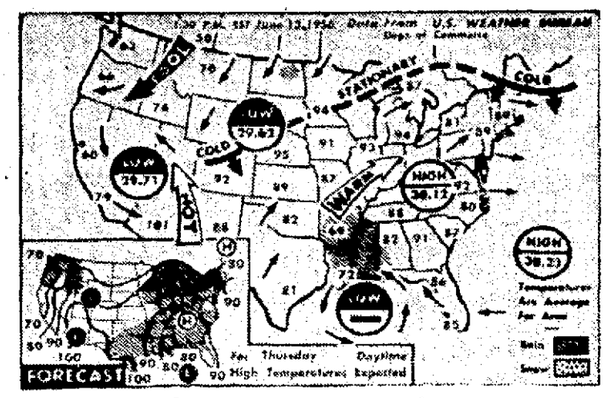

"I wouldn't say we've given up," he added.

"We might try to tag funds for this project on a later supplemental appropriations bill this year. Or possibly some arrangements between the states might be worked out later that would remove some of the opposition to the 230 KV line."

He said South Dakota has been the "most outspoken state" in opposition to the line

"The feeling in that state is that if the heavy line is built Nebraska will get too much electrical energy to the disadvantage of South Dakota," he said.

This is the second year that Congress has rejected the line, although this is the first time it has been in the budget with the administration's backing.

Parts Of Nation Expect Cooler Temps

Scattered thundershowers and showers are expected Thursday in parts of the middle Atlantic states, Ohio and Tennessee valleys, lower Great Lakes, middle Mississippi Valley, southern Plains, south Atlantic states, Gulf coast and the northwest. Passengers Worried, Crew Isn't—

BIG EXPLOSION JOLTS OCEAN LINER 'UNITED STATES'; BRITISH BLAMED

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. (AP)—A loud explosion startled 740 passengers aboard the liner United States Wednesday as the pride of the American merchant marine was approaching Southampton.

The 53,000-ton ship did not slow her speed. No one was injured and the liner was in no danger.

The blast occurred while the ship was passing a proving ground where Britain's navy tests mines and depth charges.

Mary Pickford Aboard

Actress Mary Pickford, a passenger, said when the ship arrived at Southampton 90 minutes later:

"There was a heavy thud. It was distinct all right."

Commodore John W. Anderson, the master, said: "As we were passing the British Admiralty mine proving ground, a mine was detonated and caused some disturbance to passengers."

Mile Away

Other officers aboard the ship inbound from New York estimated the explosion was between a mile and two miles away.

Later a British navy spokesman at Portsmouth said: "The liner would have been passing a spot where we test mines and depth charges. Officers in charge of mine explosions have strict orders not to let them off near passing ships."

Passengers on upper decks of the United States said a passenger ferry, crowded with people, was nearer the detonation than the liner.

Farmer Is Injured

NORFOLK, Neb.—Arthur Dreyer, 53, Norfolk farmer, is recovering in a local hospital from a neck vertebra fracture suffered in a fall from an elevator on his farm. His condition is listed as satisfactory.

MISS GRETCHEN TEAL

There will be great interest in town and campus circles this morning in the announcement made by Dr. and Mrs. Fritz Teal of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Gretchen, to Ronald Eugene Green, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Green of Scottsbluff.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, Sept. 8.

Miss Teal will be a senior next year at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, and of Pi Lambda Theta.

Mr. Green, also a senior at the University of Nebraska next year, is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity.

EVENING

Emphasis Is On Brides And Courtesies

OUT OF TOWN guests, prenuptial courtesies and weddings give emphasis to the fact that June is here—And to begin the news of the morning we'll turn our attention to Miss Marguerite Carrier and her fiance, Hugh Barnard, whose marriage will be solemnized on Saturday morning.

This evening Mr. and Mrs. Atlee Stephan will be host and hostess at a patio supper at their home when they entertain the out of town members of the families who are here for the wedding.

The guest list from out of town will include the bride's grandfather, Lewis C. Brooks, Milwaukee, Wis.; her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis P. Brooks, Madison, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Ardell Krueger, Racine, Wis.; Miss Garland Carrier, aunt of the bride, and Miss Olive Mae Pollard, Greenville, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Hawley Barnard, parents of the bridegroom, and his sister, Mrs. Shirley Sanders, all of Ann Arbor, Mich.

* * *

FRIDAY evening begins what bids fair to be a long series of courtesies for Miss Mary Miot Cox whose marriage to John McKee Hale takes place late in the summer.

On Friday evening Mrs. Burt W. Hunt and Mrs. Olin Wissler will honor Miss Cox when they entertain at the home of Mrs. Wissler. The guests, all members of the Elliott School faculty, will present the bride-elect with a "packaged" shower.

And on Tuesday afternoon Miss Cox was complimented by Mrs. Frank Court and Mrs. W. Bruce Shurtleff who were luncheon hostesses at the home of Mrs. Shurtleff. Following luncheon the bride-elect was presented with a miscellaneous shower and accompanying each gift was a recipe in the form of a poem. And incidentally, each of the guests had been a Sunday school teacher of the bride-to be, or had been associated with her in activities at St. Paul Methodist Church.

* * *

ANOTHER of the later summer brides-elect, Miss Janice Osburn, who is to marry the Rev. Lee E. Keck of Monroe, Wash., on Sept. 7 at Wayne, W. Va., has been the incentive for numerous prenuptial courtesies.

Mrs. Philip Vogel and Mrs. Jack Davis were hostesses at a dessert Wednesday evening in courtesy to Miss Osburn, who is executive secretary of the University of Nebraska YWCA.

Another recent courtesy was a luncheon for which Miss Madeline Girard and Mrs. Russell Hawkins were hostesses at Rosa Bouton Hall on the university campus.

Mrs. Leroy T. Laase entertained the members of the University YWCA advisory board at a buffet supper at her home, when a miscellaneous shower was presented to Miss Osburn. University students who belong to the YWCA also honored the bride-to-be at a picnic.

Miss Marjorie Johnston and Miss Mabel Johnston were hostesses when members of the St. Paul Methodist Church business and professional women's group honored Miss Osburn with a shower.

Another courtesy was a linen shower for which Mrs. Rex Knowles was hostess at her home. The children of the Rev. and Mrs. Knowles — Nancy, Anne, Recky, Trudy and Mark—also entertained for Miss Osburn at a "tea party" and kitchen gadget shower.

We Hear That

Robert Lee Rudolph, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rudolph, just recently received his discharge from the United States Air Force and returned to his home in Lincoln on Tuesday. He plans to reenter the University of Nebraska.

★

Returning home on Monday following a visit of several days at Chicago were Mr. and Mrs. P. N. Kelly who visited their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Kelly.

To Address Conference

Serving as a panel member for the National Community Conference, to be held at the Statler Hotel in Washington, D.C. June 13 to 16, is Dr. Otto Hoiberg of the University of Nebraska extension service, who will discuss, "The Problem: What Needs to be Done?", at the Thursday night program.

The conference is a series of workshops and meetings for community leaders from all over the nation who will have an opportunity to hear and meet top men and women in government, business, industry, education and the professions.

Representing Nebraska at the conference are the Rev. Adrian J. Edgar of Norfolk, the Rev. Carroll Lemon of Lincoln, Mrs. Alfred Anderson of Holdrege, Don Herman of Wilber, and Mrs. F. H. Barmore of Lexington, chairman of the council for Community Improvement and immediate past president of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs.

NCO Wives To Install

The members of the NCO Wives Club at the Lincoln Air Force Base will meet next Tuesday evening for dinner at the NCO Club on the base. Following the dinner, the club's new officers will be installed by Mrs. Arch Johnson.

THE STAR IN SUBURBIA

EASTRIDGE

Eastridge, according to the news we picked up this morning, has been loaded with guests—guests for the day—guests for the week-end—guests who were in town for several days—guests here, there and everywhere.

The visitors who were in town for the longest stay were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Keane of Omaha who spent a week as the house guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McGovern. The high spot in the visit, we suspect—at least as far as Mr. and Mrs. Keane were concerned—was the graduation of their granddaughter, Ellen Marie, from St. Teresa's school.

Coming from the farthest distance to spend some time in Lincoln, were Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Sargent of Champaign, Ill., who returned to their home last Monday after a week-end visit as the house guests of Dr. and Mrs. Edward Stika.

And yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Carl Neitsen returned to their home in Moorhead, Ia., after spending a long week-end as the guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Freeman.

To Lincoln last Sunday—just to spend the day—came Mr. and Mrs. Edward Abraham and their daughter, Janet, of North Bend, who were the house guests of Mrs. Abraham's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Rozmarin.

And also guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rozmarin last Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Scheidt of Detroit, Mich., who were visiting relatives and friends in Lincoln.

COUNTRY CLUB TERRACE

There have been guests in Country Club Terrace, too, so we learned on our trek through the area—We heard, for instance, that Mrs. Charles Levy of Chicago was in town for a few days—the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chandler.

Last Saturday Mrs. Chandler complimented her sister when she entertained at luncheon at her home. Twenty-eight guests were invited for the luncheon and an afternoon of bridge.

Attending the party from out of town were Mrs. Harold Chandler, Mrs. Arthur Gould and Mrs. Leonard, all of Omaha.

Home again, after a week-end spent in Burwell, are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Howard and their two sons, Edward and Thomas. Mr. and Mrs. Howard and their family were the guests of Mr. Howard's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moses.

Leaving on Friday for Leavenworth, Kan., to spend a long week-end will be Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Jennings and their children, Patty Ann and Holly Jo. The Jennings foursome will be the guests of Mrs. Jennings' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kalhorn.

We understand that Mr. and Mrs. Jennings will return to Lincoln on Tuesday, and that sometime between now and Tuesday they plan to attend a ball game in Kansas City.

KESSLER HEIGHTS

Understand there was an anniversary party out in the Kessler Heights area—a surprise party on Saturday evening arranged by Capt. Ogden Eggleston in honor of his and Mrs. Eggleston's ninth wedding anniversary.

On hand for hors d' oeuvres, for which Capt. Eggleston was host—and dinner, which was a cooperative affair, were Maj. and Mrs. William Beach, Maj. and Mrs. Charles Gove, Maj. and Mrs. David Chacey, Capt. and Mrs. George Stempe, Capt. and Mrs. Lyle Knight, Capt. and Mrs. Robert Robinson, and Capt. and Mrs. Eugene Frye.

A Summer In Europe

Miss Colleen Farrell (left) and Miss Florence Haslam (right) no sooner had received their diplomas from the University of Nebraska than they were on their way to the Airport where they boarded a plane for the east. There they will board ship and be on their way to Europe where they will spend the summer. The third member of the trio is Miss Blanche Krage who will fly to Europe and meet Miss Farrell and Miss Haslam in Paris.

To Be Easterners Now

By the simple process of moving from Nebraska to New Hampshire a Lincoln family ceases to be mid-westerners and henceforth doubtless will be considered easterners. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jelinek and their daughter, Judy, left Wednesday for their new home in Manchester, N. H., after a hearty round of social activity for Mr. and Mrs. Jelinek.

In the picture we find Mrs. Jelinek starting Judy on her way for one last swim in Lincoln—at least for several months, and we suspect that both Mrs. Jelinek and her daughter found those "lasts," as far as Lincoln is concerned, just a bit difficult.

A Bon Voyage To Nancy Kiely

A summer of fun for Miss Nancy Kiely began on Tuesday evening when Miss Sandra Enyeart and Miss Patty Jordon were hostesses at a bon voyage party on the patio at the home of Miss Enyeart. Miss Kiely leaves on Friday for New York City where she will be joined by Miss Sarah Carveth and Miss Sandra Ledingham. The threesome will set sail for a summer in Europe as members of a UCLA tour, early next week.

On Tuesday evening Miss Kiely's hostesses and their guests, presented the traveler with a going-away gift.

NFWC State Board Plans Projects

At the annual June meeting of the executive officers and board of directors of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs, held in Lincoln Tuesday and Wednesday, the group selected community service and adult education as the organization's objectives for the coming year.

"Life has no greater gift than the opportunity to serve· service fortified by education and understanding", was chosen as the federation's theme and Mrs. Roy Magill, Holdrege, state president, urged the club women to emphasize adult education in their districts through workshops and institutes.

Questions Pouring In:

Harvest Any '$6 An Acre' Wheat, Advise Top Officials Of Soil Bank

By RICHARD FELLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Questions kept pouring into the Conservation office right up to closing time Wednesday evening asking about details of the soil bank program, epecially what to do with the wheat that is partially or wholly destroyed either by the current dry spell or former damage.

Top advice, offered particularly to Nebraska's wheat growers by the men in charge of the soil bank program still said that if a farmer could expect more than $6 an acre by harvesting his wheat he should go ahead and not consider plowing up, destroying or as official terminology phrases it, "otherwise incorporating it into the soil."

June 30 is the deadline Nebraska farmers have for entering the acreage reserve part of the soil bank program. By "depositing" a specified portion of land in the soil bank, a farmer makes himself eligible for the minimum $6 payment. His acreage must then be below his allotment.

This $6 minimum is the figure to expect, ASC officers repeated, for though theoretically payments will be made according to the appraised yield at the time the crop was destroyed or the normal yield for the farm — depending upon which is lower — no authority has yet been received by the State ASC for either establishing this yield or for the signing of soil bank contracts.

When questioned about the effect of the soil bank under what Agricultural Secretary Ezra Taft Benson has called its "emergency" provisions in reducing the over all surplus, Robert Webb, executive director of the State ASC, said he thought it would help in two ways.

By entering the acreage reserve and collecting the payments for wheat that would not be harvested. Webb said a farmer would be guaranteeing that the area would remain out of production or any other use for the remainder of the 1956 season.

This, he said, would stop a man from planting something else, such as sorghum, and putting it on the market later in 1956.

Second, he maintained, by declaring a field of wheat an acreage reserve and making himself eligible for the payments, a farmer would be required to leave whatever part of the crop that might have been harvested in the field, and unharvested

This, Webb said, would stop wheat from those fields where something less than a full crop has been growing from reaching the market and becoming surplus.

Ponca State Park Pool Dedication Set For Sunday

Plans were announced for the dedication Sunday of the new $46,000 swimming pool at Ponca State Park.

Those who will participate will include Sen. Dwight Burney of Hartington, Speaker of the Legislature; Sen. Hal Bridenbaugh, Dakota City, chairman of the appropriations committee, and Glen Foster, acting executive secretary of the Game Commission.

Roy Pfister, commander of the Ponca American Legion Post, which worked to bring about establishment of the park 22 years ago, will speak.

The pool is being named Centennial Pool, in recognition of the 100th anniversary of Ponca's founding.

The pool is 100 feet long, and at the center it is 40 feet wide. Depth of the water ranges from 2½ feet to 11 feet.

There is a wading pool for small children.

Our five-corridor man in the Pentagon zone reports everything in triplicate except the nepotism. It's a five-cornered argument between three services.

Paperwork Sam, the documented-stuffed dummy, was fired from a swivel-chair during a supersonic bawl-out. It was an F-66 jet appointment subject to a two-thirds absence of the Senate.

☆ ☆ ☆

Paperwork Sam crashed on the argument-sled run when both his chutes did a flip. The chutes were mail and disposal.

☆ ☆ ☆

Probably was due to faulty packing on the benzine beard. Paperwork Sam left his swivel okay. But the bedding was not synchronized.

The self-propelled lobbyists claim they can build a safety seat that will expel anything under a presidential nominee.

Paperwork Sam's mezzanine crash was not a complete disaster. The skin-divers in the kiddies' pool managed to bail the government frank off the out-going laundry.

Sioux City Threatens To Quit Loop

Demands Split Season, Player Help From WL

DES MOINES (AP) — Western League President Neal Hobbs said here Wednesday night a special meeting of the league's directors will be held at Lincoln Friday to help solve the plight of the Sioux City Soos.

Hobbs, who was here attending the Des Moines-Albuquerque game, said the meeting was called because Sioux City has demanded help or else the Soos may be forced to quit the loop this month.

Meanwhile, Adam Pratt, Sioux City club president, told the Des Moines Register by phone Wednesday night that the Soos will drop from the Class A circuit June 30 unless the following three conditions are met by the league and Sioux City civic organizations:

1. The league vote for a split season.

2. The other league clubs help the last-place Soos obtain playing talent, particularly a second baseman, an outfielder and two pitchers.

3. One or more civic organizations agree to undertake a sale of not less than 1,000 books of 12 tickets each. The books will be sold at the established rate of 12 tickets for $10.

Hobbs said approval of the split season requires a majority vote of the league directors. Under a split season, a champion would be crowned for the first and a new race would begin at mid-season to determine a second-half champion with a probable play-off between the two at the close of the season.

Sioux City, after working with the New York Giants since 1947, is associated this year with the St. Louis Cardinals.

A Cardinal official said Tuesday that St. Louis was unable to furnish additional help for the Soos.

"I believe we would have reasonably good attendance this year with a decent ball club," Pratt said. "That is shown by the fact that every time we win, attendance picks up sharply the next night.

"However, that hasn't happened often enough to keep us from losing money steadily.

"We think the fresh start in the second half of a split season would be helpful, but only if we obtain adequate players.

"We don't want to continue if we have to do it with our present personnel. And we must have assurance that any new players we get are going to help the club."

Stuart Hammers No. 26; Lincoln Sweeps Series

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

Lincoln's heavy artillery boomed again Wednesday night as the Chiefs defeated Pueblo, 7-5, at Sherman Field to complete a four-game sweep over the Dodgers.

The victory once again kept the Chiefs in first place in the Western League chase, as the dogged Topeka Hawks eked out a 7-6 win in 14 innings over Colorado Springs to stay only a half game back of pace-setting Lincoln.

Colorado Springs now moves into Sherman Field for a five-game stand in four days. The Sky Sox and the Chiefs will play single games on Thursday, Friday and Saturday and a split-doubleheader on Sunday.

Benny Daniels (5-0) will pitch for Lincoln against the Sox tonight. Game time is 8 p.m.

Stuart

It was a game where the power provided an early lead and then the Chiefs fought off persistent Pueblo threats.

Don Rowe, b e s pectacled lefthander, got credit for his seventh win of the year, but he wasn't around at the finish.

But Rowe's absence wasn't caused by the Dodgers. He was heaved in the eighth inning by Thumb Happy Jack Wagner, the base umpire, for protesting a close play at first.

The Lincoln lefty took a throw from Bill Jackson on Larry Stankey"s grounder and tagged first, but Wagner ruled he didn't get there in time.

Don put up a beef, but Wagner listened for only about 12 seconds before ousting him without warning. Rowe, standing near the mound, rifled the ball far out into the parking lot in disgust as Manager Larry Shepard and the rest of the Chiefs continued to protest.

Don Williams had to come in cold from the bull-pen (he had warmed up a couple of times in earlier innings) with runners on first and

Ken Worley doubled to drive in a pair of runs and make it, 7-4, but Williams then put out the fire. The Dodgers picked up an unearned run in the ninth before Williams got Stankey to fly out with runners on first and third.

The Chiefs jumped off to a 7-0 lead, thanks to the Behemoth Boys —Howie Goss and Dick Stuart— before Pueblo began battling back.

Five big runs tallied in the first on a pair of walks, singles by Jackson and Reggie Grenald, and Goss' third home run in two nights, this one with two on.

Stuart provided what was to be the winning margin in the fifth when he hit his 26th homer with Jackson aboard.

All seven runs came off the Dodgers' ace hurler, Larry Sherry and he was tagged with his third loss.

Pueblo got in the money in the sixth when Frank Jeffers beat out an infield hit and scored on Stankey's triple. Chuck Soraci's single, a sacrifice and another base rap by Maury Wills plated another run in the seventh.

Goss was also given the quick boot from the game in the fifth. He complained that he didn't break his wrists on a third strike call, and Plate Umpire John Haack excused him.

Smoke Signals . . . Lincoln has now hit 86 home runs so far this season, three more than were hit all last year . . . Catcher Joe Zavattaro was hurt by a foul tip in the 8th and had to leave the game

Bosox, Indians Won't Quit; But Rain Stops Play In 12th

BOSTON (AP) — Boston and Cleveland battled for nearly four hours in an 8-8 tie Wednesday before a storm complete with rain, hail and lightning ended play.

Cleveland's Al Rosen was the leadoff batter in the 12th with a count of 1-2 when the umpire in chief, Ed Rommel, called time. After a lapse of 33 minutes, Rommel called it quits.

Boston's Jackie Jensen, actually forced the action into overtime with a tremendous bases-loaded triple into the right field corner in the fourth inning. The hit accounted for three of Jensen's four RBI's on a day in which Jackie also contributed an additional three singles in six trips.

With two out in the ninth and Rosen on first with a walk, Wertz blasted a long drive just foul into the right-field seats on Sisler's first pitch. But the Princeton graduate then knocked down a vicious smash back to the mound and threw out Vic to end the inning.

Slammin' Sam Sore; Hogan 'Dead Tired'

. . . As U.S. Open Begins

By WILL GRIMSLEY

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) —A weary Ben Hogan and a highly agitated Sam Snead face the challenge of golf's new young guard again today in the first round of the 56th National Open championship.

Most of the field of 162—134 pros and 28 amateurs—as if by habit looked apprehensively in the direction of Hogan, the phlegmatic little four-time champion from Texas, although he is 43, semi-retired and, he says, "dead tired."

"I've been working too hard for this tournament," Ben said after playing nine holes of the 6,902-yard, par 70 Oak Hill course. "I'm awfully tired and I'm not playing well at all."

Mad Sam

Hogan's long-time adversary, 44-year-old Sam Snead, who is the greatest golfer never to win this blue-ribbon classic, wasn't tired—he was just mad.

Snead's caddy, an aged Negro named Jimmy Steed, was suddenly snatched from him this morning by the U. S. Golf Assn. and the Slammer was assigned a cast-off bag-toter who had been fired by defending champion Jack Fleck.

"They had no right to do that" complained Snead. "I've had this fellow all week and now I get a new man. What do they care who caddies for who?"

The USGA said that move was made because Steed, a caddy who has worked for Snead off and on for 22 years, was assigned contary to regulations. Rules require that caddies be drawn from blind pools. Steed, who came here specifically to work for his old boss, got the job as an alternate when Snead dismissed his original bag-carrier.

White Sox End Yankee Jinx; Whip Leaders, 7-5

NEW YORK (AP) — Larry Doby's first homer of the season helped the Chicago White Sox whip the New York Yankees for the first time in seven starts Wednesday 7-5, after Ron Northey hit a three-run pinch homer.

In the frantic battle of strategy between the opposing managers, a major league record was tied when a total of nine pinch hitters was used, six by the Yanks.

Sioux City Threatens To Quit Loop

Demands Split Season, Player Help From WL

DES MOINES (AP) — Western League President Neal Hobbs said here Wednesday night a special meeting of the league's directors will be held at Lincoln Friday to help solve the plight of the Sioux City Soos.

Hobbs, who was here attending the Des Moines-Albuquerque game, said the meeting was called because Sioux City has demanded help or else the Soos may be forced to quit the loop this month.

Meanwhile, Adam Pratt, Sioux City club president, told the Des Moines Register by phone Wednesday night that the Soos will drop from the Class A circuit June 30 unless the following three conditions are met by the league and Sioux City civic organizations:

1. The league vote for a split season.

2. The other league clubs help the last-place Soos obtain playing talent, particularly a second baseman, an outfielder and two pitchers.

3. One or more civic organizations agree to undertake a sale of not less than 1,000 books of 12 tickets each. The books will be sold at the established rate of 12 tickets for $10.

Hobbs said approval of the split season requires a majority vote of the league directors. Under a split season, a champion would be crowned for the first and a new race would begin at mid-season to determine a second-half champion with a probable play-off between the two at the close of the season.

Sioux City, after working with the New York Giants since 1947, is associated this year with the St. Louis Cardinals.

A Cardinal official said Tuesday that St. Louis was unable to furnish additional help for the Soos.

"I believe we would have reasonably good attendance this year with a decent ball club," Pratt said. "That is shown by the fact that every time we win, attendance picks up sharply the next night.

"However, that hasn't happened often enough to keep us from losing money steadily.

"We think the fresh start in the second half of a split season would be helpful, but only if we obtain adequate players.

"We don't want to continue if we have to do it with our present personnel. And we must have assurance that any new players we get are going to help the club."

Soos Rally, Win

Stuart Hammers No. 26; Lincoln Sweeps Series

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

Lincoln's heavy artillery boomed again Wednesday night as the Chiefs defeated Pueblo, 7-5, at Sherman Field to complete a four-game sweep over the Dodgers.

The victory once again kept the Chiefs in first place in the Western League chase, as the dogged Topeka Hawks eked out a 7-6 win in 14 innings over Colorado Springs to stay only a half game back of pace-setting Lincoln.

Colorado Springs now moves into Sherman Field for a five-game stand in four days. The Sky Sox and the Chiefs will play single games on Thursday, Friday and Saturday and a split-doubleheader on Sunday.

Benny Daniels (5-0) will pitch for Lincoln against the Sox tonight. Game time is 8 p.m.

Stuart

It was a game where the power provided an early lead and then the Chiefs fought off persistent Pueblo threats.

Don Rowe, bespectacled lefthander, got credit for his seventh win of the year, but he wasn't around at the finish.

But Rowe's absence wasn't caused by the Dodgers. He was heaved in the eighth inning by Thumb Happy Jack Wagner, the base umpire, for protesting a close play at first.

The Lincoln lefty took a throw from Bill Jackson on Larry Stankey"s grounder and tagged first, but Wagner ruled he didn't get there in time.

Don put up a beef, but Wagner listened for only about 12 seconds before ousting him without warning. Rowe, standing near the mound, rifled the ball far out into the parking lot in disgust as Manager Larry Shepard and the rest of the Chiefs continued to protest.

Don Williams had to come in cold from the bull-pen (he had warmed up a couple of times in earlier innings) with runners on first and

Ken Worley doubled to drive in a pair of runs and make it, 7-4, but Williams then put out the fire. The Dodgers picked up an unearned run in the ninth before Williams got Stankey to fly out with runners on first and third.

The Chiefs jumped off to a 7-0 lead, thanks to the Behemoth Boys —Howie Goss and Dick Stuart— before Pueblo began battling back.

Five big runs tallied in the first on a pair of walks, singles by Jackson and Reggie Grenald, and Goss' third home run in two nights, this one with two on.

Stuart provided what was to be the winning margin in the fifth when he hit his 26th homer with Jackson aboard.

All seven runs came off the Dodgers' ace hurler, Larry Sherry and he was tagged with his third loss.

Pueblo got in the money in the sixth when Frank Jeffers beat out an infield hit and scored on Stankey's triple. Chuck Soraci's single, a sacrifice and another base rap by Maury Wills plated another run in the seventh.

Goss was also given the quick boot from the game in the fifth. He complained that he didn't break his wrists on a third strike call, and Plate Umpire John Haack excused him.

Smoke Signals . . . Lincoln has now hit 86 home runs so far this season, three more than were hit all last year . . . Catcher Joe Zavattaro was hurt by a foul tip in the 8th and had to leave the game

Bosox, Indians Won't Quit; But Rain Stops Play In 12th

BOSTON (AP) — Boston and Cleveland battled for nearly four hours in an 8-8 tie Wednesday before a storm complete with rain, hail and lightning ended play.

Cleveland's Al Rosen was the leadoff batter in the 12th with a count of 1-2 when the umpire in chief, Ed Rommel, called time. After a lapse of 33 minutes, Rommel called it quits.

Boston's Jackie Jensen, actually forced the action into overtime with a tremendous, bases-loaded triple into the right field corner in the fourth inning. The hit accounted for three of Jensen's four RBI's on a day in which Jackie also contributed an additional three singles in six trips.

With two out in the ninth and Rosen on first with a walk, Wertz blasted a long drive just foul into the right-field seats on Sisler's first pitch. But the Princeton graduate then knocked down a vicious smash back to the mound and threw out Vic to end the inning.

Slammin' Sam Sore; Hogan 'Dead Tired'

... As U.S. Open Begins

By WILL GRIMSLEY

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) —A weary Ben Hogan and a highly agitated Sam Snead face the challenge of golf's new young guard again today in the first round of the 56th National Open championship.

Most of the field of 162—134 pros and 28 amateurs—as if by habit looked apprehensively in the direction of Hogan, the phlegmatic little four-time champion from Texas, although he is 43, semi-retired and, he says, "dead tired."

"I've been working too hard for this tournament," Ben said after playing nine holes of the 6,902-yard, par 70 Oak Hill course. "I'm awfully tired and I'm not playing well at all."

Mad Sam

Hogan's long-time adversary, 44-year-old Sam Snead, who is the greatest golfer never to win this blue-ribbon classic, wasn't tired—he was just mad.

Snead's caddy, an aged Negro named Jimmy Steed, was suddenly snatched from him this morning by the U. S. Golf Assn. and the Slammer was assigned a cast-off bag-toter who had been fired by defending champion Jack Fleck.

"They had no right to do that" complained Snead. "I've had this fellow all week and now I get a new man. What do they care who caddies for who?"

The USGA said that move was made because Steed, a caddy who has worked for Snead off and on for 22 years, was assigned contary to regulations. Rules require that caddies be drawn from blind pools. Steed, who came here specifically to work for his old boss, got the job as an alternate when Snead dismissed his original bag-carrier.

Larsen's Slugging Peps Central City

CENTRAL CITY—Orvis Larsen slammed a home run, two doubles and a single as the Central City American Legion juniors beat David City, 9-2. Central City pitcher Larry Roscoe didn't allow a hit until Max Coufal doubled with one out in the seventh.

Tom McMahon also homered for Central City.

White Sox End Yankee Jinx; Whip Leaders, 7-5

NEW YORK (AP) — Larry Doby's first homer of the season helped the Chicago White Sox whip the New York Yankees for the first time in seven starts Wednesday 7-5, after Ron Northey hit a three-run pinch homer.

In the frantic battle of strategy between the opposing managers, a major league record was tied when a total of nine pinch hitters was used, six by the Yanks.

Detroit Spoils Loes' Hurling, Gains 2-0 Win

BALTIMORE (AP) — Charley Maxwell socked a home run in the ninth inning Wednesday to wrap up a 2-0 victory for Detroit and spoil the sparkling one-hit performance Billy Loes turned in for Baltimore in the first six innings.

Maxwell's 11th circuit clout of the season came with Wayne Belardi on base as the result of a single. George Zuverink, who relieved Loes in the seventh, yielded the home-run pitch.

Loes had struck out five and walked but one in his first start since being bought May 14 by Baltimore from the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Zuverink was touched for four hits to take his second defeat against three victories. Steve Gromek, who relieved starter Paul Foytack for the Tigers in the eighth, got credit for his fifth triumph against three defeats.

Boots Aid Chicago's 6-5 Victory

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs continued their June revival Wednesday when, helped along by three New York errors, they beat the Giants 6-5 before 10,141.

The three New York miscues gave the Cubs their first five runs — all unearned.

It was the Cubs' 10th win in their last 13 games—in which period they have jumped from the cellar to sixth place in the National League, a game and a half ahead of the Giants.

The Giants set the stage for the Cubs' fourth consecutive victory in the second when, with two out Pete Whisenant reached second base on Hank Thompson's throw into the Giant dugout. Then catcher Hobie Landrith doubled for the first of four runs in that frame. Before it was over, Eddie Miksis unloaded a three-run homer, his fifth, off loser Jim Hearn. It was Big Jim's sixth setback.

Lown got Mays on a game-ending fly to Whisenant with the bases full of Giants.

Dillard's Hit Sparks Elk League Play

Bennie Dillard, University of Nebraska freshman sprint ace, turned his talents to baseball Wednesday night and slammed a four-run homer for Lawlor's in a 13-1 win over Ben's at Antelope Diamond as Elks League play opened.

Dillard's blast, over the left-field fence, featured an 11-run first inning for Lawlor's.

In the first game Denny Curtin set Globe down with three hits as champion Mack's Transport took an 11-1 decision. Curtin aided his own cause with two doubles and a single in four times at bat.

Braves Rap Phillies, 8-6

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Danny O'Connell's three triples and home runs by Del Crandall and Eddie Mathews sweetened a 14-hit Milwaukee attack Wednesday night as the Braves beat the Philadelphia Phillies and Robin Roberts, 8-6.

Roberts, the first of five Philadelphia hurlers, was tagged with his eighth loss against five victories.

The victory went to Ray Crone, his fifth against three defeats, as he was the first of three Milwaukee pitchers, who allowed the Phillies 13 hits.

Arizona, Gophers Meet Tonight

OMAHA (AP) — Arizona clubbed Minnesota, 10-4, Wednesday night in the NCAA College World Series and set up a third meeting between the teams tonight for the championship.

Minnesota had beaten Arizona, 3-1, last Sunday and went into Wednesday night's game with a 4-0 series mark and a chance to end it by whipping the Wildcats again.

But Arizona turned loose a barrage of long distance hits in the first three innings to nail down the game and stay in the double elimination series.

Don McGinnis started the long ball hitting with a solo homer in the first inning, then Jack Davis smacked one over the fence in the second with a mate on, and Tom Clarkson blasted a bases loaded triple in the third to give Arizona a 6-0 lead and sink the Big Ten champions.

Braves Send Prep Hurler To McCook

MILWAUKEE, (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves said Wednesday they have signed right-handed pitcher Leroy Cherek of Mosinee, Wis., to a contract with their McCook farm team in the newly organized Nebraska State League. The Class D circuit opens action July 1.

Cherek, 18, recently graduated from Mosinee High School where he fanned 124 batters in 69 innings while giving up only 24 hits and 6 bases on balls. He's 6-3, 190 pounds.

Stable Fire Adds Drama To Equestrian Olympics

STOCKHOLM (AP) — A flash stable fire, a rain storm and severe injuries to horses and riders brought high drama and a threat of disaster Wednesday to the Equestrian Olympic Games.

The fire, born in a pile of hay, spread throughout a big red brick training building in the stable area where more than 200 Olympic horses worth a million dollars were quartered.

Dozens of horses were evacuated to safety and none was reported injured although many had narrow escapes.

U. S. Team Disqualified

The blaze came a few hours after completion of the second day of the three-day trial, during which the American team was disqualified and three daredevil Englishmen, and a tough Swede took the leads in the competition for the first gold medal.

In addition to the United States, teams from 10 other countries were disqualified when at least one of their riders did not complete the 21¾-mile course made muddy and treacherous by overnight rain.

Maj. Jonathan R. Burton, 36, Berwyn, Ill., was thrown at the finish and was taken to the hospital for head X-rays. Early reports said he suffered a concussion.

Frank Duffy of Birmingham, Mich., a University of Michigan student, fell at the third barrier and withdrew, although he wasn't hurt.

Missouri Horseman

Although the U. S. team was disqualified, Walter G. Staley of Mexico, Mo., had one of the best rides of the day on Mud Dauber and vaulted from 56th place in the individual standings to 10th with a point score of 134.57.

Staley was delighted at the end of his round.

Detroit Spoils Loes' Hurling, Gains 2-0 Win

BALTIMORE (AP) — Charley Maxwell socked a home run in the ninth inning Wednesday to wrap up a 2-0 victory for Detroit and spoil the sparkling one-hit performance Billy Loes turned in for Baltimore in the first six innings.

Maxwell's 11th circuit clout of the season came with Wayne Belardi on base as the result of a single. George Zuverink, who relieved Loes in the seventh, yielded the home-run pitch.

Loes had struck out five and walked but one in his first start since being bought May 14 by Baltimore from the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Zuverink was touched for four hits to take his second defeat against three victories. Steve Gromek, who relieved starter Paul Foytack for the Tigers in the eighth, got credit for his fifth triumph against three defeats.

Boots Aid Chicago's 6-5 Victory

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs continued their June revival Wednesday when, helped along by three New York errors, they beat the Giants 6-5 before 10,141.

The three New York miscues gave the Cubs their first five runs — all unearned.

It was the Cubs' 10th win in their last 13 games—in which period they have jumped from the cellar to sixth place in the National League, a game and a half ahead of the Giants.

The Giants set the stage for the Cubs' fourth consecutive victory in the second when, with two out Pete Whisenant reached second base on Hank Thompson's throw into the Giant dugout. Then catcher Hobie Landrith doubled for the first of four runs in that frame. Before it was over, Eddie Miksis unloaded a three-run homer, his fifth, off loser Jim Hearn. It was Big Jim's sixth setback.

Lown got Mays on a game-ending fly to Whisenant with the bases full of Giants.

Dillard's Hit Sparks Elk League Play

Bennie Dillard, University of Nebraska freshman sprint ace, turned his talents to baseball Wednesday night and slammed a four-run homer for Lawlor's in a 13-1 win over Ben's at Antelope Diamond as Elks League play opened.

Dillard's blast, over the left-field fence, featured an 11-run first inning for Lawlor's.

In the first game Denny Curtin set Globe down with three hits as champion Mack's Transport took an 11-1 decision. Curtin aided his own cause with two doubles and a single in four times at bat.

Arizona, Gophers Meet Tonight

OMAHA (AP) — Arizona clubbed Minnesota, 10-4, Wednesday night in the NCAA College World Series and set up a third meeting between the teams tonight for the championship.

Minnesota had beaten Arizona, 3-1, last Sunday and went into Wednesday night's game with a 4-0 series mark and a chance to end it by whipping the Wildcats again.

But Arizona turned loose a barrage of long distance hits in the first three innings to nail down the game and stay in the double elimination series.

Don McGinnis started the long ball hitting with a solo homer in the first inning, then Jack Davis smacked one over the fence in the second with a mate on, and Tom Clarkson blasted a bases loaded triple in the third to give Arizona a 6-0 lead and sink the Big Ten champions.

Stable Fire Adds Drama To Equestrian Olympics

STOCKHOLM (AP) — A flash stable fire, a rain storm and severe injuries to horses and riders brought high drama and a threat of disaster Wednesday to the Equestrian Olympic Games.

The fire, born in a pile of hay, spread throughout a big red brick training building in the stable area where more than 200 Olympic horses worth a million dollars were quartered.

Dozens of horses were evacuated to safety and none was reported injured although many had narrow escapes.

U. S. Team Disqualified

The blaze came a few hours after completion of the second day of the three-day trial, during which the American team was disqualified and three daredevil Englishmen, and a tough Swede took the leads in the competition for the first gold medal.

In addition to the United States, teams from 10 other countries were disqualified when at least one of their riders did not complete the 21¾-mile course made muddy and treacherous by overnight rain.

Maj. Jonathan R. Burton, 36, Berwyn, Ill., was thrown at the finish and was taken to the hospital for head X-rays. Early reports said he suffered a concussion.

Frank Duffy of Birmingham, Mich., a University of Michigan student, fell at the third barrier and withdrew, although he wasn't hurt.

Missouri Horseman

Although the U. S. team was disqualified, Walter G. Staley of Mexico, Mo., had one of the best rides of the day on Mud Dauber and vaulted from 56th place in the individual standings to 10th with a point score of 134.57.

Staley was delighted at the end of his round.

Yankees Shaded In All-Star Poll

NEW YORK (AP) — The league-leading New York Yankees, who have threatened to make a runaway of the pennant race, are finding it difficult to win votes in the balloting for the All-Star Baseball Game.

Latest tabulations for the July 10 contest at Washington show only Mickey Mantle heading center fielders for the American League squad and the Yankees' Yogi Berra gathering the highest total for catchers.

Mantle is the individual leader with 8,635 votes, placing him ahead of teammate Berra by about 800 points. Red Schoendienst, the St. Louis Cardinals second baseman, currently benched with a sore arm, remains the National League Pace-setter with 6,348 votes.

Mantle and Berra, the one-two thrust of the Yankee attack, are getting little competition in the race for starting positions. Mantle leads Boston's Jim Piersall by close to 8,000 points. Runner-up Sherm Lollar of the Chicago White Sox is furnishing Berra with his only competition, but is over 7,000 votes to the rear.

The voting, conducted by newspapers, radio stations and television stations and tabulated by the office of Commissioner Ford Frick, ends June 26.

Kansas City Vacates Cellar; Jars Nats With 21-Hit Attack

WASHINGTON (AP)—Kansas City vacated the American League basement with a 21-hit barrage against four Washington pitchers Wednesday. Tim Thompson, and Vic Power each collected five hits as the Athletics mauled the Senators, 13-4.

Harry Simpson supplied four hits, while Hector Lopez chipped in with a home run, double and single. Gus Zernial also homered for the A's, who pushed the Senators into the cellar.

Art Ditmar, who gave way to Art Harrington and the heat in the eighth inning, registered his sixth victory, striking out nine.

Thompson, who fouled out his first time up, ripped off three singles and two doubles in his last five attempts. Power also supplied three singles and two doubles.

The Senators paraded Pedro Ramos, Dean Stone, Connie Grob and Truman Clevenger to the mound and all were battered freely.

Yankees Shaded In All-Star Poll

NEW YORK (AP) — The league-leading New York Yankees, who have threatened to make a runaway of the pennant race, are finding it difficult to win votes in the balloting for the All-Star Baseball Game.

Latest tabulations for the July 10 contest at Washington show only Mickey Mantle heading center fielders for the American League squad and the Yankees' Yogi Berra gathering the highest total for catchers.

Mantle is the individual leader with 8,635 votes, placing him ahead of teammate Berra by about 800 points. Red Schoendienst, the St. Louis Cardinals second baseman, currently benched with a sore arm, remains the National League Pace-setter with 6,348 votes.

Mantle and Berra, the one-two thrust of the Yankee attack, are getting little competition in the race for starting positions. Mantle leads Boston's Jim Piersall by close to 8,000 points. Runner-up Sherm Lollar of the Chicago White Sox is furnishing Berra with his only competition, but is over 7,000 votes to the rear.

The voting, conducted by newspapers, radio stations and television stations and tabulated by the office of Commissioner Ford Frick, ends June 26.

The latest vote tabulations (based on 500 or more votes):

Kansas City Vacates Cellar; Jars Nats With 21-Hit Attack

WASHINGTON (AP)—Kansas City vacated the American League basement with a 21-hit barrage against four Washington pitchers Wednesday. Tim Thompson, and Vic Power each collected five hits as the Athletics mauled the Senators, 13-4.

Harry Simpson supplied four hits, while Hector Lopez chipped in with a home run, double and single. Gus Zernial also homered for the A's, who pushed the Senators into the cellar.

Art Ditmar, who gave way to Art Harrington and the heat in the eighth inning, registered his sixth victory, striking out nine.

Thompson, who fouled out his first time up, ripped off three singles and two doubles in his last five attempts. Power also supplied three singles and two doubles.

The Senators paraded Pedro Ramos, Dean Stone, Connie Grob and Truman Clevenger to the mound and all were battered freely.

Hagerty Reports No Talk On Ike's Election Plans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Eisenhower's press secretary said Wednesday "there has been no talk at all" with President Eisenhower about his present intentions on running again.

That was the reply James C. Hagerty gave when asked whether anyone had spoken with Eisenhower at Walter Reed Hospital about his second-term plans, in view of his second illness in nine months.

At the Capitol in Washington, four Republican senators said they haven't given a thought to the possibility Eisenhower will withdraw. One of them, Sen. Payne (R-Maine), commented:

"I think those who say he might not be a candidate are just indulging in wishful thinking."

Sens. Mundt (R-SD), Bridges (R-NH) and Jenner (R-Ind) expressed similar opinions.

Abroad, at Brussels, former President Truman said he hoped Eisenhower's health is such that the chief executive will be able to run for re-election. He wouldn't discuss a reporter's question as to whether Democratic chances would improve if Eisenhower pulled out of the race.

Truman was in Belgium on another leg of his European trip.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), a Democratic presidential hopeful, said in Washington he believes the Republicans "will run the President if they can possibly do it." Kefauver also said his defeat by Adlai Stevenson in the California primary had not lessened his determination to seek the Democratic nomination.

For Adlai

In Florida, Gov. Leroy Collins made it clear he's for Stevenson. Collins had been officially silent during his state's primary, in which Stevenson captured 22 of Florida's 28 convention votes.

Reverberations continued from Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler's charge that White House reports on Eisenhower's condition amounted to "propaganda." Butler said so Tuesday, claiming some doctors and presidential associates are trying to convince the public Eisenhower is better off as a result of his heart attack and more recent operation.

Gov. Walter Kohler of Wisconsin declared Butler was "partisan and biased." In New York for a speech, Kohler told a news conference medical bulletins on the President's health have been so plain that physical fitness "is no longer an issue."

Senate Approves Nebraska Works

The House bill was for $790,758,000 and the two measures will be reconciled in conference.

Nebraska projects in the Senate bill were:

Construction:

Missouri River, Kenslers Bend to Sioux City, flood control and navigation, $1,400,000.

Planning:

Norfolk, flood control, $35,000.

Waterloo, flood control, $6,000.

Kefauver also said his defeat by Adlai Stevenson in the California primary had not lessened his determination to seek the Democratic nomination.

For Adlai

In Florida, Gov. Leroy Collins made it clear he's for Stevenson. Collins had been officially silent during his state's primary, in which Stevenson captured 22 of Florida's 28 convention votes.

Reverberations continued from Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler's charge that White House reports on Eisenhower's condition amounted to "propaganda." Butler said so Tuesday, claiming some doctors and presidential associates are trying to convince the public Eisenhower is better off as a result of his heart attack and more recent operation.

Gov. Walter Kohler of Wisconsin declared Butler was "partisan and biased." In New York for a speech, Kohler told a news conference medical bulletins on the President's health have been so plain that physical fitness "is no longer an issue."

REA Loan Would Cut Costs—Koza

LEXINGTON, Neb. (AP)—A rural power district official contends REA financing for the proposed Central Nebraska Public Power and Irrigation District could cut as much as 25 million dollars from financing costs.

"Failure to obtain REA finance for the proposed electric power generating plant near Lexington may increase the interest and coverage charges of financing the plant as much as $772,000 per year, or $24,700,000 during the life of the bonds," Edward Koza, Dawson County Public Power District manager, said.

REA officials have held up a loan to Central for the plant pending the outcome of litigation in the Nebraska Supreme Court. A basic issue has been the contention of Consumers Public Power District that it can get more favorable interest rates than the Nebraska Public Power System to build a power plant.

Consumers' Offer

Consumers has offered to take over construction of the plant from Central if the latter utility cannot obtain the necessary financing.

Dawson district Board Chairman Lloyd Neil says saving in financing costs which Consumers could show over NPPS were no greater than the margin by which Central, with REA financing, could better Consumer's financing costs now.

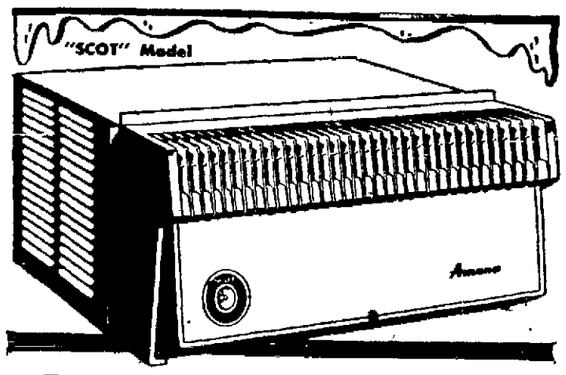

Dawson officials contend that Central can finance the plant with REA loans at 2 per cent interest and 1.35 coverage while Consumers financing would probably be at the rate of 3 per cent interest and 2.0 coverage.

Neil supports the idea of short term loans from the various rural district to enable Central to continue with construction schedules until REA funds are available.

STANTON DELAPLANE

POSTCARD

By 1975 the United States will be banded by 80 major highways, running from coast to coast and border to border. In the same year, every citizen over 60 will have $200 a month income from the government.

These are not my predictions. They are predictions I read in the predicters' columns of the daily journals.

I don't think the two forecasts have any relationship. They are on the same page but not in the same story.

The automobile public will get the 80 highways because they require them for the cars which Detroit makes longer and lower each year.

The citizens over 60 years, I assume, will get $200 as a reward for being spry enough to dodge.

☆ ☆ ☆

I have done some driving in the past year on the freeways and toll roads on which the new American autobahn will be patterned.

They make great concrete swoops over cities. And you can spill yourself out at your destination practically by thought. Just get in the outside lane and the car takes care of itself.

After several steady hours of driving on the Pennsylvania turnpike, I decided to shoot the man I was driving with. I was that bored. Anything for excitement.

☆ ☆ ☆

I do hope that in the brave new world (when I shall be getting $200 skins per mo. Halleluja!) they leave in a few of the old highways.

The good old highways with the shattered glass of previous mistakes in judgment. And the battered cars being towed off to some car mortuary.

The highways that wore you out trying to keep from hitting the fool in front who drove too slow. And avoiding being creamed by the dunderhead in back who drove with his front bumper pressed cozily against your rear.

The highways where you stopped panting for a coke and cringed as the traffic whizzed by. Whizzzzzzz!

Alas, it will be a safer world but a duller one when you arrive calm and cool. Instead of hating everybody.

☆ ☆ ☆

There are very few traffic police on the new turnpikes, I noticed. There were one or two patrol cars parked in the concrete parking bays. But the policemen looked as though they might be taking a sneak listen to "Young Dr. Malone." Instead of keeping tuned to the police channels.

There were signs all along. Advising trucks to keep to the outside and not to go a mile over 50. While we kept to the middle and went exactly 60.

The turnpikes (as they will in the future 1975) avoided towns.

We never went near a main street. Or had to crane a neck out the side to see which way traffic was routed around the courthouse.

At the end of the line, we paid our toll to the uniformed toll keeper and a sign pointed us right onto the next State turnpike.

When we finally got into a city, I cut in on a truck driver and he leaned out of the cab and blistered me so wonderfully I was all for getting out and shaking hands with him.

The new highways will run straight as a string. Except where they go into those frightening whorls that always land you on the road to Boston. When you are trying to get over into New Jersey.

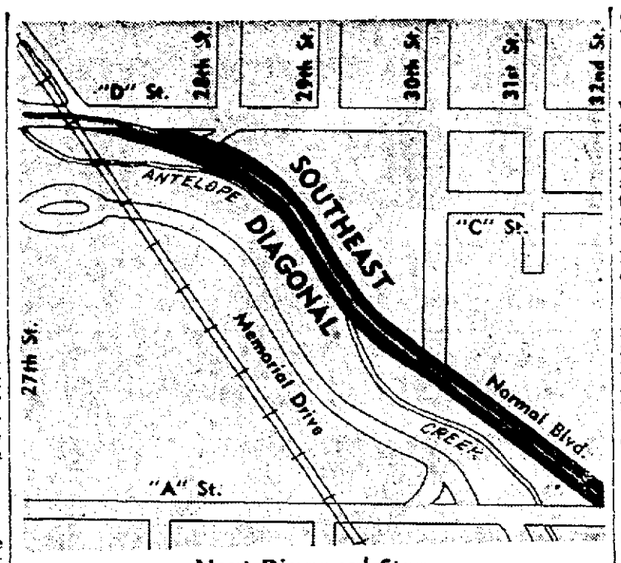

The senior citizens of 60, I imagine, will not be driving. Not with $200 coming in, rain or shine and beer in the icebox. A man does not live to 60 without getting pretty smart. And I do not think a smart man will be on the highways.

No, all us old daredevils of the good old highways will be sitting around the TV. Counting our money. Telling the young whippersnappers what it was like to snap the whip in a four-wheel drive on a two-lane road.

(McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Decisive Test Run

DETROIT (AP) — Traffic Judge John D. Watts called for a test when Chester S. Bragiel argued he could not have been doing 80 miles an hour when arrested for speeding. "Why my car couldn't get over 50, your honor," Bragiel complained. The judge had a policeman take Bragiel's car out on an expressway for a test run. The officer telephoned back that the car hit 80 miles an hour easily and could have gone faster. Bragiel was sent to jail for five days and ordered not to drive for a year.

Next Diagonal Step

The heavy double black line shows the route of the second section of the southeast diagonal approved by the City Council for construction at an estimated cost of of $500,000. The section will run from 27th and D to 32nd and A where it will connect up with Normal Blvd. Future planning calls for the widening of Normal as part of the diagonal from A east to beyond 48th. (Star Drawing.)

Sale Of Telephone Exchanges OK'd

Hearing is scheduled for July 10 in Lincoln on application of the Southern Nebraska Rural Public Power District for authority to construct additional transmission lines in Phelps, Kearney, Merrick, Adams, Hamilton, Hall and Buffalo Counties.

Soviet Flier Who Fled Challenges Russians To Produce Buddy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Peter Pirogov, a former Soviet airman who defected in 1949, challenged the Russians Wednesday to produce a fellow pilot who fled to the West with him but later returned to Russia.

Pirogov, who now lives in nearby Alexandria, Va., said he had been told by a Soviet Embassy official last fall that the other flier, Anatole Borzov, was still alive.

But Pirogov testified at a Senate Internal Security subcommittee he didn't believe the report.

Shot On Return

The subcommittee placed in its record an excerpt from a book by Vladimir Petrov, a former Soviet agent, saying he had been told in 1950 that Borzov was shot after returning to Russia.

The subcommittee, inquiring into the redefection campaign of Russia and her satellites, also was told by an unidentified Russian emigre that two members of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations recently approached him and tried to induce him to return to Russia.

The names of the two members of the Soviet U. N. delegation were not disclosed publicly, but the subcommittee said the FBI had been advised of their identity.

Landed In Austria

Pirogov and Borzov came down in their plane in the American zone of Austria in 1949. They both went to the Americans, while another member of the crew returned to Russia.

At Wednesday's subcommittee hearing Pirogov testified that Borzoy had been persuaded by Soviet Embassy officials to return to the Soviet Union in August, 1949, and that Borzov had tried to talk him into going back too.

Petrov, a former Soviet agent in Australia who defected to the West in April, 1954, wrote in his book "Empire of Fear," that Borzov had been executed on his return.

In the excerpt quoted by the subcommittee, Petrov wrote that one day in 1950 one of his colleagues in the Soviet secret police headquarters in Moscow told him Borzov was being questioned in prison and was talking freely in hopes of a pardon and of being able to see his wife and son again.

"They kept Borzov about eight months in prison because he had so much interesting information to supply and because so many senior MVD officers wanted to check up on various points in his story," the excerpts from Petrov's book said. It added:

"Of course, no one told him that he had been sentenced to death while he was still in America. When they had finished with him they shot him without letting him see his wife and son again."

Pirogov was asked if this was the first he had heard of the fate of his fellow flier "Officially, this is the first time," he replied.

But he said that last fall an official of the Soviet Embassy, identified by the subcommittee as Victor Zegal, the second secretary, told him Borzov was still alive.

Construction Firm Makes $43,000 Claim

The building of a better detour has resulted in a claim of $43,000 against the State Highway Department by the Roberts Construction Co. of Lincoln.

The funds claim, however, was refused Wednesday by both State Engineer L. N. Ress and State Auditor Ray Johnson.

The construction company is expected to take the matter to court

According to Ress, the claim was made after Roberts was held up temporarily by seven inches of rain and a desire by Gage County authorities for building a better detour. The work was being done on a main highway south of Beatrice by the Roberts company.

Gage County was held up in constructing the detour, Ress said, by close to seven inches of rain. Contracts for the main road work were let in June, 1954, with work scheduled for completion in May, 1955.

Despite the delay, though, Ress said, the company finished the job in November of 1954.

The State Highway Department worked for and was granted secondary road funds for finishing the detour with blacktop over an inch and a half of crushed rock, Ress said. This was on top of an inch and a half of rock placed on the road by the county.

The result was secondary road improvement of lasting nature. But rain delayed the construction of the road.

Ress said the claim is the first of its kind he can remember against the Highway Department.

A $15,000 personal injury suit has been filed by Larry Williams of 1919 Sumner, through his mother, Mrs. Lena Williams, against the Lincoln School District and Albert LaMere of 1045 No. 66th.

The Lancaster District Court petition alleges that Williams, a student at Lincoln High School, was injured Dec. 16, 1954, in the school's machine shop.

He alleges that LaMere, a shop instructor, negligently drove a 1947 model car onto the shop's air hoist, pinning Williams against a work bench

The student asks judgement for alleged knee and leg injuries suffered in the accident

Soviet Flier Who Fled Challenges Russians To Produce Buddy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Peter Pirogov, a former Soviet airman who defected in 1949, challenged the Russians Wednesday to produce a fellow pilot who fled to the West with him but later returned to Russia.

Pirogov, who now lives in nearby Alexandria, Va., said he had been told by a Soviet Embassy official last fall that the other flier, Anatole Borzov, was still alive.

But Pirogov testified at a Senate Internal Security subcommittee he didn't believe the report.

Shot On Return

The subcommittee placed in its record an excerpt from a book by Vladimir Petrov, a former Soviet agent, saying he had been told in 1950 that Borzov was shot after returning to Russia.

The subcommittee, inquiring into the redefection campaign of Russia and her satellites, also was told by an unidentified Russian emigre that two members of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations recently approached him and tried to induce him to return to Russia.

The names of the two members of the Soviet U. N. delegation were not disclosed publicly, but the subcommittee said the FBI had been advised of their identity.

Landed In Austria

Pirogov and Borzov came down in their plane in the American zone of Austria in 1949. They both went to the Americans, while another member of the crew returned to Russia.

At Wednesday's subcommittee hearing Pirogov testified that Borzoy had been persuaded by Soviet Embassy officials to return to the Soviet Union in August, 1949, and that Borzov had tried to talk him into going back too.

Petrov, a former Soviet agent in Australia who defected to the West in April, 1954, wrote in his book "Empire of Fear," that Borzov had been executed on his return.

In the excerpt quoted by the subcommittee, Petrov wrote that one day in 1950 one of his colleagues in the Soviet secret police headquarters in Moscow told him Borzov was being questioned in prison and was talking freely in hopes of a pardon and of being able to see his wife and son again.

"They kept Borzov about eight months in prison because he had so much interesting information to supply and because so many senior MVD officers wanted to check up on various points in his story," the excerpts from Petrov's book said. It added:

"Of course, no one told him that he had been sentenced to death while he was still in America. When they had finished with him they shot him without letting him see his wife and son again."

Pirogov was asked if this was the first he had heard of the fate of his fellow flier. "Officially, this is the first time," he replied.

But he said that last fall an official of the Soviet Embassy, identified by the subcommittee as Victor Zegal, the second secretary, told him Borzov was still alive.

House Unit Demos Fail To Win Taft-Hartley Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rebellious "Young Turk" Democrats on the House Labor Committee failed Wednesday in efforts to win immediate consideration of Taft-Hartley law revision and extension of minimum wage coverage.

Committee members voted at a stormy meeting to consider two other bills and thereafter leave the call of the committee to the discretion of Chairman Barden (D-NC).

Afterward, Rep. Wier (D-Minn) said the meeting failed to accomplish a thing. Rep. Bailey (D-WVa), asked if he was satisfied, replied: "No."

No Meetings

Barden has been under attack by Rep. Roosevelt (D-Calif) and some other committee "Young Turks" for not holding meetings to deal with proposed labor legislation.

The committee voted down a motion by Bailey to summon Secretary of Labor Mitchell to lay before it specific proposals for revising the Taft-Hartley labor-management relations law.

Members reported only seven votes were cast in favor of the proposal. However, others said it would be renewed and attributed its defeat to the wording of the motion, not its substance.

The committee also omitted from its immediate schedule bills to extend coverage of the minimum wage law to classes of workers now exempt. Roosevelt tried hard to get that bill up.

The committee agreed to consider first at a meeting Thursday a bill to leave to the discretion of the secretary of labor the minimum wage to be paid native labor for work in Guam, Samoa, Wake Island and the Panama Canal zone.

Foreign Areas

The bill also would exempt U.S. construction jobs in foreign areas from minimum wage requirements.

The committee agreed that next in order would be a bill by Rep. Udall (D-Ariz), authorizing the government to bear the cost of school construction in federally "impacted" areas where racial integration in schools makes additional construction necessary.

"Impacted" areas are those where local school districts have been overburdened by pupils from nearby federal activities. The government now assists such districts, and the Udall bill would provide additional funds to assist in carrying out racial integration.

RR Crossing Closing OKd Over Protests

The City Planning Commission Wednesday approved, over objection of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce and an interested business firm, vacation of the railroad crossing at 44th Street and the Rock Island and Burlington tracks.

Objections to closing the 44th Street crossing were heard from representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and the Seal Rite Manufacturing Co. Members of the Commission then endorsed the contention that crossing safety considerations being discussed by the City and the railroads in other negotiations would best be served by closing the crossing.

In other Commission business, petitions for changes in zone were denied W. E. Troxel and Fred R. Likes.

Troxel desired to change from "D" multiple dwelling to "I" commercial on southeast corner of 27th and T Streets.

Likes petitioned to change from "A-2" single family to "G" local business on northwest corner of Cotner Blvd. and Vine.

An additional use permit was granted to Fred Nevels for off-street parking for Jet Car Wash at 2215 P Street.

Action was deferred on additional use permits for Roy A. Bitner for off-street parking for Grace Lutheran Church on east side of 27th Street north of Garfield, and for Donald F. Buls to operate a trailer court on 35th Street extension north of Cornhusker Highway.

Preliminary approval was granted on plats:

Kilzer Heights between 35th and 37th.

Kimberly Heights, by Card Adams Co., south of Smith and between Scott and 39th, north of Van Dorn.

Young's Subdivision, between Vine and "T" on both sides of 58th.

Eastmont second addition, between L and O, and between lots on east side of Cotner and 63rd extended.

Preliminary and final approval was granted on plat Paradise Park first addition, between 42nd and 44th and south of the MoPac Railroad.

Action was deferred on Hillcrest Heights, south of O Street on 84th Street and on Homebuilders Replat, Block 1 and 2 in Homebuilders Village, first addition.

The Commission approved vacation of these street crossings in conjunction with railroad protection: 44th, 58th, 60th, 61st, 62nd, 63rd, 64th, 65th, 67th, 69th, and 70th.

Action on a proposal to close the north-south alley from Newton to South and between 49th and 50th was deferred.

Parker Files Appeal Notice

Darrell F. Parker has filed notice in Lancaster District Court that he will apply on a writ of error to the Nebraska Supreme Court for review of his first-degree murder trial.

The 24-year-old ex-city forester was found guilty May 3 by a District Court jury of first-degree murder in the strangulation death of his wife, Nancy, last Dec. 14

District Judge John Polk overruled June 3 the defense motion for a new trial and sentenced Parker to life imprisonment on the jury's recommendation.

Parker has also made a poverty affidavit asking the court to require the county to pay for the bill exceptions and transcript of District Court proceedings in connection with the appeal.

His affidavit states he is "unable by reason of his poverty to pay" these costs.

At the Nebraska Penitentiary, Parker has been assigned as clerk-secretary to the Rev. Robert Kees, prison chaplain.

Rev. Kees described Parker as "very good and efficient" in his work.

The chaplain, noting he had plans for reorganizing and expanding the work of his office, said Parker was a "very competent" worker.

Alienation Suit Names L. C. Loomis

Harold O. Olson of 3330 C has filed a $25,000 alienation of affections suit against Leslie C. Loomis of 1423 P, former humane society superintendent.

In his Lancaster District Court petition, Olson alleges Loomis began showing "marked attention" to his wife, Dorothy H. Olson, making dates with her and inducing her to take trips with him.

Olson contends Loomis' action has caused Mrs. Olson to abandon her home and two minor sons.

The Olsons were married Dec. 21, 1934, at Rockport, Mo., and became friends with Loomis several years ago, according to the petition.

$125,000 Check

CHICAGO (INS)—Paul M. Butler, chairman of the Democratic national committee, was given a check for $125,000 as the final installment of the $250,000 guarantee by civic officials to have the Democratic convention in Chicago.

Morgan Murphy and Willis Gale, co-chairman of the citizens committee to bring the Democratic convention to Chicago, presented the check to Mayor Richard J. Daley who, in turn, handed it to Butler.

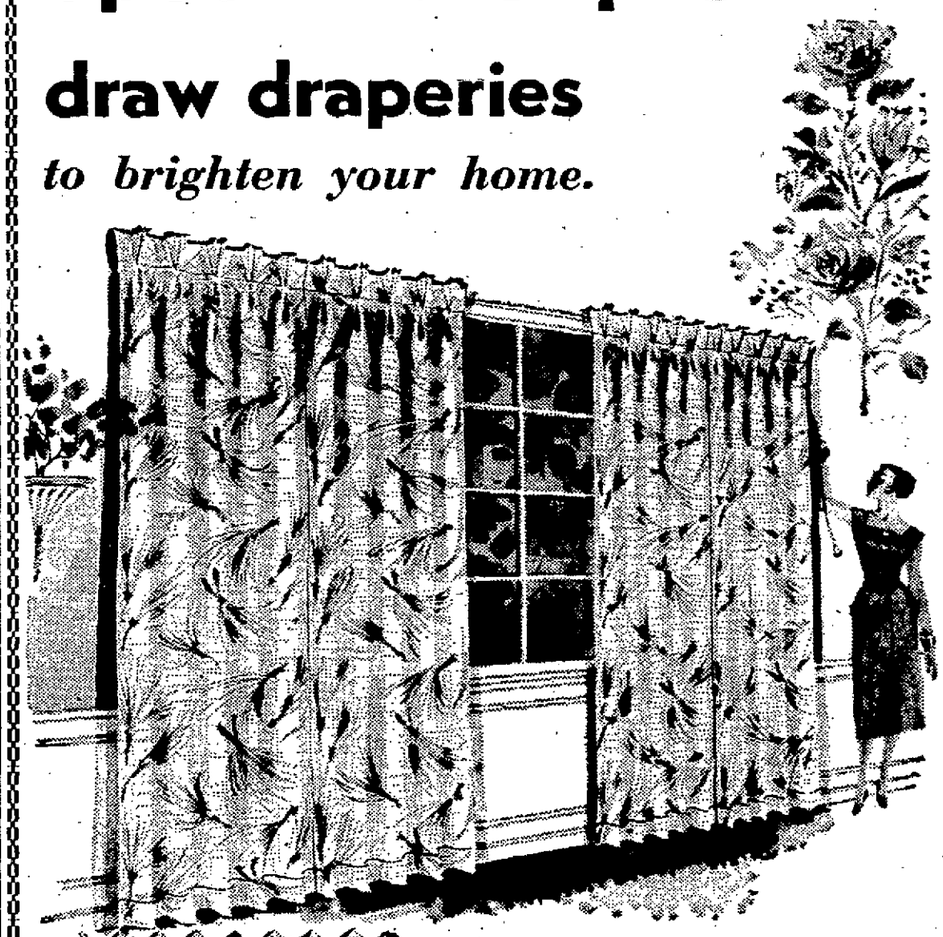

The committee raised the money from hotels and other business establishments.

House Group Cites 'Defiant' Singer Paul Robeson For Contempt

By ROBERT E. THOMPSON

WASHINGTON (INS) — The House UnAmerican Activities Committee, still angered by Paul Robeson's unbridled defiance, cited the Negro singer Wednesday for contempt of Congress.

Seven members of the nine-man panel voted unanimously in a closed-door session to send the contempt action to the House floor.

If approved by the members, the case would be sent to the Justice Department for prosecution.

Chairman Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) said Robeson, appearing before the committee Tuesday, "indulged in conduct which the courts have held to be contemptuous."

Although the hulking, explosive singer invoked the Fifth Amendment when queried about Red affiliations and associations, he shouted his contempt for the committee time and time again.

Probers "Fascistic"

Robeson asserted at one point that the investigators were fascistic, unAmerican and unpatriotic.

His praise for Soviet Russia was as unrestrained as his blasts at the committee.

In answer to one question about his alleged Communist Party membership, the singer shouted: "It's none of your business."

Robeson's display ranged from bellowing, fist-pounding anger to whispering, wounded sensitivity

Robeson did not limit his insults to the committee. He denounced American treatment of Negroes and especially the segregation views of Sen. James Eastland (D-Miss).

Russia, Robeson told the committee, was the only place he has visited where he felt like a "full human being."

Rep. Pat Kearney (R-N.Y.) also urged the committee to seek Justice Department prosecution of Henry Willcox, New York construction company president and a resident of South Norwalk, Conn., for treason

Willcox admitted attending the 1952 Communist-sponsored Asiatic-Pacific Peace Conference in Red China, which accused the U. S. of using germ warfare in Korea.

Following Willcox's testimony, Kearney declared: "I'm firmly convinced if ever there was a flagrant case of teason, this one is—I urge the committee to send this case to the Department of Justice."

In addition to Robeson, the committee cited Clark Foreman of New York for contempt and asked the Justice Department to look into the case of New York Attorney Louis Boudin.

The group deferred action on a proposed contempt citation against Dr. Otto Nathan, executor of the estate of the late Dr. Albert Einstein and associate professor of economics at New York University.

Foreman and Nathan refused Walter's demand that they turn over their passports to the committee.

Solve Problems Before Mob Acts, Law Enforcement Men Are Told,

The most important counter-measure against mob behavior is "an honest and persisting effort to solve the problems that provoke people to anger," Dr. Paul Meadows said here Wednesday.

The University of Nebraska sociology professor discussed mob behavior at the annual Law Enforcement Institute

Mobs, he said, are made up of people trying to solve their problems in "the most primitive and elementary fashion -- by physical aggression."

After a mob moves into action, he said, authorities have just two alternatives — to let the mob exhaust itself physically or to introduce superiod physical force

Public authorities should not only try to solve problems that provoke mobs but also seek to prevent the formation of mobs, Dr. Meadows said.

They can do this, he said, by charting symptoms of unrest and hostility, winning the support of potential crowd leaders, dispersing clusters of people, watching for attempts to plan and use mobs and preventing formation of a focus of crowd attention.

Another speaker, Kenneth E Hale of Omaha, discussed ways to detect counterfeit money

Hale is special agent in charge of the U. S. Secret Service office in Omaha.

Barry Kinsey, a University of Nebraska graduate student in criminology, gave a talk on "'Traps' For The Ballistics Expert."

He pointed out that persons skilled in one aspect of the "highly developed science" of ballistics sometimes are called on to testify on other aspects on which they are not really "experts."

Scientist Who Ran Amok Termed Insane

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A scientist working on classified government projects who ran amok last Feb. 10 and stabbed four associates was described as insane at the time by three psychiatrists Wednesday.

The reports of the psychiatrists on Dr. Robert J. Dwyer, 49, a doctor in physics from Harvard, were filed with Superior Court Judge Kenneth C. Newell.

Police said Dr. Dwyer went berserk in the Beckman Instruments, Inc., plant and then attempted to kill himself.

Pfc. Wilbur Lewis, 24, of Toledo, Ohio, was credited with saving the life of Pfc. Charles P. Harper, 20, of Eau Claire, Wis., in a mass jump June 6. The demonstration was staged for Gen. Ne Win, chief of staff of Burmese armed forces, on a Ft. Bragg visit.

State Farm Buys Site; Adds Office

State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company purchased for $63,000 the Cotner and O site for its proposed $1-million office building to house its west central branch according to deeds filed Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the insuranve firm announced the establishment in Lincoln of western district offices for its life insurance company. Operations were to start here Monday.

The life insurance offices will be located on the second floor of the Hested Store building at 14th and O until the new office building is completed.

The Hested space was leased for one year from Midwest Life Insurance Company, the owner of the building. The lease, providing for a renewal option, was arranged by the firm of Loomis and Johnson.

State Farm Mutual Companies with home offices at Bloomington, Ill., has its automobile insurance offices at 1014 O.

300-350 Employes

A company spokesman said both the auto and life companies would be moved into the new office building at Cotner and O when it is completed. Construction was to begin within a few months, he said, and between 300 and 350 employes would be employed in the new structure.

The newly-purchased property, fronting 780 feet on the south side on O and running to a depth of 483 feet, was purchased in two tracts, according to records in the Register of Deeds' office.

Mr. and Mrs. Max W. Taylor were paid approximately $45,000 for their property and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Loomis received approximately $18,000, according to revenue stamp amounts.

Earlier State Farm had announced the building would be a one-story structure of masonry construction, 260 by 220 feet in size.

Dean Lambert To Head Group Working For Animal Lab Here

A steering committee headed by Dean W. B. Lambert of the College of Agriculture at the University of Nebraska will head up Nebraska's bid for a planned animal disease laboratory.

The new lab, scheduled for construction by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, will replace a structure in Washington, D. C., which has been determined obsolete.

Lambert was named chairman of the steering committee to draw up plans for presentation to the administrator of the Agriculture Research Service, a division once headed by Lambert.

The steering committee was named from various livestock poultry, and swine interests in the state along with various government agencies and interested persons.

Specify University

Specifications set forth in a recent news release from the U. S. Department of Agriculture stipulated the new lab be located near a land-grant college or university having a veterinary school or animal disease research department.

Also stipulated was that the site be near a center of livestock production and away from concentrated metropolitan centers.

The meeting concluded that the University would provide the most easily accessible facility for meeting the requirements set up by the agriculture department.

The disease lab, to be built at a cost of around $19 million dollars, will be determined by a site committee. The first general meeting will be in St. Louis, Mo. on June 27th.

Emphasize Lincoln

Several sites were mentioned Wednesday, including Lincoln and Omaha, with the strongest emphasis on the University because of the local library services and the possibility of the atomic power plant proposed near Lincoln serving in research.

Clarence Swanson, University regent, said the bid should be for the University of Nebraska "because it belongs here and we want it."

Dr. J. L. George, state veterinarian, said the value of the laboratory in the state would be immense, especially to cattle ranchers and feeders. At present, George said, laboratory work needed by the state has to be sent to Washington, D. C., for testing which, he explained, is a time-taking procedure.

Other cities, including Grand Island, Broken Bow, Wilber and Alliance, are expected to make bids for the plant site.

Attendents at the meeting included Gov. Victor Anderson, Charles Price, director of the Nebraska Resources Division, Dr. W. J. Simic of Beatrice, president of the State Veterinary Medical Society, Nathan Gold of Lincoln, and other interested individuals.

Simic noted to the group that his organization had passed a resolution favoring the location of the laboratory in Nebraska.

Site Committee Named By Benson

WASHINGTON (AP)—A committee to consider sites for a proposed $18,915,000 Animal Disease Laboratory was named by Secretary of Agriculture Benson Wednesday.

Heading the 10-member committee is Don Collis of Kit Carson, Colo., president of the National Cattlemen's Assn.

The committee is scheduled to meet in St. Louis June 27 to enable various groups to tell where they think the laboratory should be located.

The other committee members are associated with livestock, agriculture and veterinary groups. They are:

Wilbur Plager, Ames, Iowa; Lloyd Avila, Red Bluff, Calif.; Merrill N. Warnick, Pleasant Grove, Utah; W. T. Young, Storrs, Conn.; Dr. C. H. Good, Cheyenne, Wyo.; Don Turnbull, Kansas City, Mo.; Dr. H. E. Kingman, Chicago; Harold Hutton, Oklahoma City, and Carl Neuman, Chicago.

McClure Elected NPIC Chairman

Members of the Nebraska Petroleum Industries Committee unanimously elected William D. McClure of Lincoln, district sales manager of the California Company, new chairman of the committee.

State Farm Buys Site; Adds Office

State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company purchased for $63,000 the Cotner and O site for its proposed $1-million office building to house its west central branch according to deeds filed Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the insuranve firm announced the establishment in Lincoln of western district offices for its life insurance company. Operations were to start here Monday.

The life insurance offices will be located on the second floor of the Hested Store building at 14th and O until the new office building is completed.

The Hested space was leased for one year from Midwest Life Insurance Company, the owner of the building. The lease, providing for a renewal option, was arranged by the firm of Loomis and Johnson.

State Farm Mutual Companies with home offices at Bloomington, Ill., has its automobile insurance offices at 1014 O.

300-350 Employes

A company spokesman said both the auto and life companies would be moved into the new office building at Cotner and O when it is completed. Construction was to begin within a few months, he said, and between 300 and 350 employes would be employed in the new structure.

The newly-purchased property, fronting 780 feet on the south side on O and running to a depth of 483 feet, was purchased in two tracts, according to records in the Register of Deeds' office.

Mr. and Mrs. Max W. Taylor were paid approximately $45,000 for their property and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Loomis received approximately $18,000, according to revenue stamp amounts.

Earlier State Farm had announced the building would be a one-story structure of masonry construction, 260 by 220 feet in size.

Dean Lambert To Head Group Working For Animal Lab Here

A steering committee headed by Dean W. B. Lambert of the College of Agriculture at the University of Nebraska will head up Nebraska's bid for a planned animal disease laboratory.

The new lab, scheduled for construction by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, will replace a structure in Washington, D. C., which has been determined obsolete.

Lambert was named chairman of the steering committee to draw up plans for presentation to the administrator of the Agriculture Research Service, a division once headed by Lambert.

The steering committee was named from various livestock poultry, and swine interests in the state along with various government agencies and interested persons.

Specify University

Specifications set forth in a recent news release from the U. S Department of Agriculture stipulated the new lab be located near a land-grant college or university having a veterinary school or animal disease research department.

Also stipulated was that the site be near a center of livestock production and away from concentrated metropolitan centers.

The meeting concluded that the University would provide the most easily accessible facility for meeting the requirements set up by the agriculture department.

The disease lab, to be built at a cost of around $19 million dollars, will be determined by a site committee. The first general meeting will be in St. Louis, Mo. on June 27th.

Emphasize Lincoln

Several sites were mentioned Wednesday, including Lincoln and Omaha, with the strongest emphasis on the University because of the local library services and the possibility of the atomic power plant proposed near Lincoln serving in research.

Clarence Swanson, University regent, said the bid should be for the University of Nebraska "because it belongs here and we want it."

Dr. J. L. George, state veterinarian, said the value of the laboratory in the state would be immense, especially to cattle ranchers and feeders. At present, George said, laboratory work needed by the state has to be sent to Washington, D. C., for testing which, he explained, is a time-taking procedure.

Other cities, including Grand Island, Broken Bow, Wilber and Alliance, are expected to make bids for the plant site.

Attendents at the meeting included Gov. Victor Anderson, Charles Price, director of the Nebraska Resources Division, Dr. W. J. Simic of Beatrice, president of the State Veterinary Medical Society, Nathan Gold of Lincoln, and other interested individuals.

Simic noted to the group that his organization had passed a resolution favoring the location of the laboratory in Nebraska.

Heading the 10-member committee is Don Collis of Kit Carson, Colo., president of the National Cattlemen's Assn.

The committee is scheduled to meet in St. Louis June 27 to enable various groups to tell where they think the laboratory should be located.

The other committee members are associated with livestock, agriculture and veterinary groups. They are:

Stock Mart's Strong Rally Continues

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market's strong rally from Friday's break continued Wednesday for the third session, but the tempo of recovery slowed.

News of the President's illness Friday brought on the sharpest decline in eight months, but the market now has recovered all of the lost ground and 50 per cent more.

The rise Wednesday produced gains of $1 to $2 generally, but the list was well flecked with minor minus signs in key areas.

Right now the market stands at the highest point in the recovery drive that nipped off a three-week reaction startins from near the April highs.

As measured by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks, here is what happened in the past four days. On Friday the average was off $3.00, Monday $2.20. Tuesday up $1.80, and Wednesday up 60 cents at $181.60.

The industrial component of the average was up 90 cents Wednesday, rails up 60 cents and utilities up 10 cents.

Volume came to only 1,780,000 shares Tuesday.

Although the recovery from the Friday drop has shown diminishing vigor, brokers are hoping the market has successfully tested the previous low point and is in a position to start its traditional summer rally.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange on volume of 780,000 shares, compared with 850,000 Tuesday.

Stock Mart's Strong Rally Continues

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market's strong rally from Friday's break continued Wednesday for the third session, but the tempo of recovery slowed.

News of the President's illness Friday brought on the sharpest decline in eight months, but the market now has recovered all of the lost ground and 50 per cent more.

The rise Wednesday produced gains of $1 to $2 generally, but the list was well flecked with minor minus signs in key areas.

Right now the market stands at the highest point in the recovery drive that nipped off a three-week reaction starting from near the April highs.

As measured by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks, here is what happened in the past four days. On Friday the average was off $3.00, Monday up $2.20. Tuesday up $1.80, and Wednesday up 60 cents at $181.60.

The industrial component of the average was up 90 cents Wednesday, rails up 60 cents and utilities up 10 cents.

Volume came to only 1,760,000 shares Tuesday.

Although the recovery from the Friday drop has shown diminishing vigor, brokers are hoping the market has successfully tested the previous low point and is in a position to start its traditional summer rally.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange on volume of 780,000 shares, compared with 850,000 Tuesday.

GrainsMakeGains In Active Session

CHICAGO (AP)—Gains ended higher on the Board of Trade Wednesday even though profit taking in the last hour cut back extreme gains rather sharply.

A generally bullish atmosphere prevailed during the morning, sparked by continued dry weather in the midwest, reports much of the wheat arriving at southwestern terminals was going into storage and rumors of potential soybean oil exports.

Toward the finish, however, much of the buying enthusiasm had died down. Trading was active throughout the day.

Wheat closed 1½-1⅝ higher, corn ⅜-⅝ higher, oats ¾-1½ higher and rye 1½-2¼ higher.

Soybeans closed ¼ lower to 2¼ higher and lard 3 cents lower to 7 cents a hundred pounds higher.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK (AP) — Corporate bond prices turned mixed Wednesday, while long-term U. S. Government issues edged lower.

Price changes either way were generally small and tended to cancel each other out, with the result that the corporate bond market as a whole showed little over-all change from the day before.

The pace-setting rails worked both sides of the street, while convertibles followed the general upward trend in the stock market.

Long-term U. S. Treasury obligations gave ground slightly, the Victory loan 2½s losing 2/32 at 95 5/32 bid, and the government's 30-year 3¼s off 2/32 at 104 30/32 bid. The 40-year 3s were bid 2/32 lower at 99 28/32.

Extensive Search For Fossils Set In Sidney Area

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP)—A field party from the University of Nebraska museum was scheduled to set up camp Monday at the site of a fossil discovery northeast of Sidney.

The museum staff plans extensive excavations during the summer. The party is headed by Lloyd Tanner, assistant curator.

The discovery of fossil of rhinorceros, camel, saber tooth tiger and horse specimens, believed to have lived in the period just before the ice age a million to two million years ago, has lead archaeologists to hope that this location may be the first major find of fossil from that era—a missing link in the natural history of the country.

Extensive Search For Fossils Set In Sidney Area

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP)—A field party from the University of Nebraska museum was scheduled to set up camp Monday at the site of a fossil discovery northeast of Sidney.

The museum staff plans extensive evcavations during the summer. The party is headed by Lloyd Tanner, assistant curator.

The discovery of fossil of rhinorceros, camel, saber tooth tiger and horse specimens, believed to have lived in the period just before the ice age a million to two million years ago, has lead archaelogists to hope that this location may be the first major find of fossil from that era—a missing link in the natural history of the country.

Democracy 'Living, Changing Thing,' Hardin Tells Boys' Staters

Members of Cornhusker Boys' State were told Wednesday night that "Democracy is a living, changing thing, constantly shifting to meet new needs and to better serve the general welfare of our country."

"That is why leadership is so important," Chancellor Clifford M. Hardin of the University of Nebraska continued. "We must be sure that our leadership understands the importance of the individual within our dynamic system," he declared.

"You are here," he said, "because thoughtful people in your home communities believe that you have certain basic qualities of leadership. I am very happy to see the American Legion has seen fit to arrange for these Boys' and Girls' State programs on the campuses of our University.

"Here at the University, we, too, are engaged in the development of leadership, believe in a free exchange of ideas and the importance of the individual and expect each new class . . . to be a little better than the one which preceded it.

"Such an attitude on our part, of course, anticipates a willingness on your part to accept the responsibilities of leadership. We expect our young people to be more than friendly bystanders on the American scene.

"We expect them to participate, to stand for the basic precepts of Americanism, to stand and work for the American system, not because they know no other system, but because they understand all others and in that understanding have a deep faith in our own.

"We expect a measure of the same kind of participating from you who have had the opportunity afforded by Boys' State."

Thursday's Boys' State sessions include addresses by C. Russell Mattson on "The Courts and Their Function," and by Dr. Jack Rodgers on "The Legislative Council." The Boys' State Legislature and Supreme Court will also be in session. The activities close Saturday afternoon.
